Right Is Key To World Peace, Congressman Says

What's Right Instead Of Who's Right Must Be Basis For Action, Deane Believes

Representative Charles B. Deane, on his return to Washington Friday after visiting key industrial and political centers of Europe said: "I've read and heard more aggressive war talk within a few hours following my arrival in the United States than during my entire stay in Europe."

Mr. Deane, along with Mrs. Deane, flew from New York on September 27, 1951, with a joint West Coast delegation of representatives of the shipping companies and longshoremen to attend the World Assembly for Moral Re-Armament at Caux, Switzerland. The Eighth District Congressman brought these industry and labor groups together during the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference in San Francisco. This trip was the first joint effort by management and labor in Pacific ports to tackle the industrial conflict which has cost the West Coast 10 billion dollars in the past fifteen years.

In a report to the President and Speaker Rayburn, who urged the N. C. Congressman to make the trip, Deane stated: "At Caux I met leaders in government, industry, and the professions from over 70 countries who in a brief space of time gave me a clearer picture of the world's social, economic and foreign problems than I had heretofore gained during my service in the Congress." Mr. Deane continued by saying that important as is the information obtained in Congressional hearings, he believes that his colleagues on each side of the aisle would find at Caux "the most significant international center in the world for obtaining answers as well as facts". Mr. Deane was particularly impressed with the first-hand evidence of answers to Communism and many perplexing world problems arising from it.

The Congressman attended and took part in meetings for ten days that dealt with "the ideological strategy for the free world." He saw Communists change on a major scale and said this opened his eyes to a new possibility of answering effectively the subversive strategy in the danger areas of Europe. He heard representatives from Asia say that they found in Moral Re-Armament a superior ideology that would unite both East and West. British delegates maintained that here was a force which would stabilize the United Kingdom and the British Commonwealth regardless of the outcome of the election on October 25.

Leaving Caux, Switzerland, the group travelled to the industrial Ruhr of Germany and there as well as in the docks of Hamburg, Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Liverpool, London and Glasgow, saw evidence of an answer to Communism in the heart of Europe's coal, steel and shipping industries. Deane stated that he went into the mines and into the docks and talked personally with miners and mine management, dockers and former Communists who had settled their disputes "by applying the principle, not who's right, but what's right."

At Bonn, the capital of West Germany, the Congressman conferred personally with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the head of the German Government, and with several cabinet ministers.

Congressman Deane stated that there was no question from his observations that Moral Re-Armament has become a major force in European affairs. "It is doing more," he stated, "in a practical way to answer the ideological conflicts in Europe which might lead to war, than any other force at work today."

Mr. Deane further stated that (Continued on page 4)

Presbytery Opposes Vatican Appointment

Fayetteville Presbytery, meeting in its regular fall session in the Brownson Memorial Church in Southern Pines Tuesday, unanimously adopted a resolution severely criticizing President Truman for his appointment of General Mark Clark as ambassador to the Vatican.

The resolution read: "Inasmuch as the President of the United States, by his nomination of General Mark Clark as official ambassador to the Papal State, Vatican City, has flagrantly violated the principle of the separation of church and state, which is a fundamental tenet of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. and a most vital and cherished safeguard of the American democracy; therefore, be it resolved:

"1. That the Presbytery of Fayetteville place itself on record as being unequivocally opposed to the action of the President, and that notification of the Presbytery's stand be sent to the proper authorities.

"2. That the Senators and Representatives in Congress from the State of North Carolina be appraised of the feeling of our Presbytery in this matter.

"3. That ministers and elders of the Fayetteville Presbytery be instructed to inform local congregations of the dangerous direction involved in the President's action, and the feeling of the Presbytery in this matter.

"4. That the Presbytery of Fayetteville hereby overtures the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States that it express in the strongest way possible 'the unalterable opposition of our church to the appointment of any ambassador, official or unofficial, to the head of any particular church.'

The Rev. Ray Dickens of Maxton was elected and served as moderator of the session.

Dr. G. L. Hooper of Dunn was nominated moderator for the next stated session of Presbytery which will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, Fayetteville, on January 22.

Hoke High Loses To Hope Mills, 13 To 6, Friday

Loss Makes Second To Cumberland Teams; Locals Without Several Players

Hoke High's Bucks went to Hope Mills last Friday afternoon and lost a close football game, 13 to 6. They were never in the lead.

Both teams put up strong defenses, yielding only 228 yards on the ground and in the air, according to the Fayetteville Observer. The Hoke team threw 15 passes completing 4 for 28 yards, while Hope Mills threw only five, completing one for 10 yards.

The Bucks were without the services of their stalwart full-back, Fred Holland, and line-backer Bobby Lundy, and while putting up a good fight, Coach Rockholz's charges were outplayed by the Hope Mills team which with this game had won five in a row.

Hope Mills scored in the second quarter on a line play from the 20-yard line and was in front 7-0 at the half.

The Bucks made their tally in the third quarter when Butler snatched an attempted handoff from a Hope Mills back and went 20 yards for the score. Benner's attempted kick was wide and the Bucks were still behind.

Hope Mills scored again in the final quarter when a 15-yard penalty put the ball on the Raeford two yard line and a line play was good for the touchdown.

The Bucks have an open date tomorrow and play Erwin, Fairmont and Spring Hope here on the next three Fridays. All are afternoon games and will start at 3:00 o'clock.

BOY SCOUTS GET REBUFF FROM PUBLIC

Harvey Gobeille, chairman of the annual fund-raising campaign for the support of the Boy Scouts in Hoke County, said yesterday that only 100 persons had responded to the appeal for funds and that these had given what amounted to about half of the $800 quota which must be raised in the county.

Gobeille laid the lack of response to many people just putting it off, but any way it's looked at, even that amount to lack of interest, nothing else. The committee didn't ask business houses for contributions and didn't ask individuals for large ones, hoping that as many as 800 people in the county would care as much as one dollar to have a part in the fine work done by the Boy Scouts in the county and over the country.

He said that he hoped another reminder would bring the money in and that the campaign would be extended until November 1 for this purpose. Contributions of any size will be accepted at Israel Mann's store, Cooper's Super Market, Hoke and Howell's Drug store and the Bank of Raeford.

"The next time you pass one of these places, hand over a buck for the Boy Scouts. That's all there will be to it and you'll be helping a good cause," the chairman said.

Duster Pilot Does Good Deeds In Fla.

The following article recently appearing in the Miami Herald is written about Clyde Christopher, who has for several years spent several months each year here, operating as a crop duster pilot.

Okeechobee—Clyde Christopher is being acclaimed here in the flooded areas adjacent to Lake Okeechobee and has aptly been dubbed "the flying good Samaritan."

Christopher, a former duster pilot, owns a small ranch near Lakeport on the west shore of Lake Okeechobee.

When the flood came he borrowed a small plane owned by Howard Drawdy and Rod Chandler, president of the city council, to check up on his cattle.

Only a small strip of hard surface road near a general store was available for landing in the Lakeport area, but he made it. He found the surrounding countryside under water and most of the homes flooded.

The community was isolated so Christopher brought out mail and messages to worried friends and relatives of Lakeport natives.

As the water continued to rise and wash out bridges, cutting off further travel in the area, he flew in milk, bread and groceries along with feed for stranded cattle which had been herded onto government dikes.

Commercial fishermen had loaned cattlemen boats and motors and Christopher helped by bringing in gasoline and other supplies.

ENGINEER GRATEFUL FOR PAVING SUPPORT

District Engineer Luke Powell of the State Highway Commission commented in Raeford this week that the people of the town are and have been most cooperative with the department about staying off streets and roads being paved by the commission during the several days the roads must be closed. He said that in most instances here the public completely stayed off of them, while in many other places it is hard to do a good job because of the people driving on the roads when they are not in shape.

Malcolm Matheson of Duke University was a week end visitor in the home of his aunt, Mrs. Deane Huggins.

Voters Will Decide On $30,000 In Bonds Next Tues.

Voters of the town of Raeford will go to the polls next Tuesday, October 30, to approve or disapprove an ordinance passed by the town board on September 24, authorizing the issuance of up to $30,000 water bonds of the town for the purpose of providing funds for enlarging and extending the waterworks system.

That, on the face of it, is what the town's voters will be voting for. However, there is more to the situation than meets the eye. The situation is that the money has to be raised by the town in part to remove a deficit in the water department and also to finish work on the water system which the board thinks must be done. It is the opinion of many that the board will spend the money whether the voters approve the issue or not, and the fact remains that the water deficit must be paid off.

If the voters disapprove the issue of the bonds it is an obvious fact that taxes in the town will have to be raised at once to take care of these items, the figure of $2.50 per $100 valuation in the town being the most often mentioned.

Therefore, what it appears that the voters of the town will really be voting for is whether to certainly get a substantial hike in their tax rate, or to issue the bonds and have a fair chance that the tax rate will not have to go so high to pay them off over an extended length of time.

It appears that the cheapest way out would be the approval by the voters of the proposed bond issue.

Chairman Asks Votes For 5c Research Tax

Pollholders, Polling Places Named For Farmer's Referendum To Be Held Nov. 3

All farmers, farm women, children and others of Hoke County, who buy feed or fertilizer, should take advantage of the opportunity to vote November 3 on the proposal to expand Agricultural Research in North Carolina, according to R. J. Hasty, Chairman of the County Referendum committee.

During the past several years Agricultural Research has developed Atlas Wheat, Colonial Barley, Arlington Oats, Black Shank and Granville Wilt resistant tobacco varieties, new pasture mixtures, better methods of fertilizing and planting pastures and crops, insect control methods, Hybrid corn and the corn program and many other things. A favorable vote to give 5c per ton on feed and fertilizer will make it possible to increase the amount and speed of this type of work in North Carolina.

Mr. Hasty states that it is not necessary to register for this referendum and that the following polling places will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. on Saturday, November 3. In charge of each polling place will be the Chairman and Co-Chairman for each township, whose names appear below:

Cutting North Of Raeford Monday

Officers of the county sheriff's department jailed James Marshall McIntyre, colored, at about noon Monday on charges that he had assaulted Alice Edwards, colored, with a knife at her home north of Raeford at about nine o'clock that morning.

The officers state that she was seriously cut up about the arms, face and body and was in a hospital. They say they understand that McIntyre went into the house where the women was in bed and started cutting her. They were unable to suggest a motive, although the sheriff said he understood that McIntyre and his wife and Alice Edwards had been together the night before. He said that after the cutting McIntyre went out to a friend's home several miles from Raeford and retired, and that they located him there a couple of hours later.
