FARM ITEMS

County Agent

Many farmers in the county are now wondering whether to stop dusting or spraying cotton or to make 1 or 2 more applications. In about every cotton field now there are many weevils at work. In fields where there are a lot of young bolls there is a lot of damage being done at this time. However, many fields are fairly safe from much weevil damage while others need at least 1 or 2 more applications of poison.

In young or late cotton, there is a definite need for more treatments. Some of this cotton is still fruiting and treatments should be continued until a crop safe from weevil damage is assured.

One of the greatest threats to the cotton at present is damage from the boll worm. Observations this week show that there is an increase of this pest since last week. Bollworm moths are quite noticeable in cotton fields now and with favorable weather conditions for development, they could cause considerable damage.

Treatment for boll weevil should hold the bollworm population in check. If the infestation is not checked, increase dosage applications to 15 pounds per acre of 3-5-0 or 3-5-40 or 20% Toxaphene, or use 2 applications of 10% DDT dust at 10 pounds per acre at 5 day intervals. Fields should be watched closely for infestations and treatments made to control them if necessary.

4-H Boys Tour Pig Chain Projects

(By the County Agent)
A project of much interest to some of the rural boys in the county is the purebred pig chain project that is sponsored by Sears and Roebuck Foundation. This project was started in December, 1951, with seven club boys receiving purebred gilts. The purpose of the pig chain project is to help boys secure good breeding stock and give them practical experience in feeding and management of swine. Pig chains of this nature have been in operation in counties throughout North Carolina for a number of years and are playing an important role in the development of the swine industry.

On Wednesday, July 9, 4-H club members toured the projects of each club member to see how the other boys were managing and caring for their animals. In addition to the boys who had pig projects, other making the tour were: W. R. Smith, Manager of the Sears store in Fayetteville, Phil Johnson, Raeford, Jim Butler, Swine Specialist of State College, and the County Agent.

As each project was visited, Mr. Butler judged each animal according to type, development, and its possibilities of making a good brood sow. The animals were placed in blue, red, and white ribbon groups. Boys having animals placed in the blue ribbon group were Bobby Vanhoy, R-3, Raeford, Charlie Jacobs, R-1, Aberdeen, and Fred Holland, R-2, Raeford. Those having gilts placed in the red ribbon group were Clyde Leach, Robert Currie, and Billy Everleigh, of R-1, Red Springs. Cash prizes were awarded in the amounts of $12.00 for blue, $10.00 for red, and $8.00 for white. These prizes were donated by the Sears Roebuck Foundation. As long as the pig chain is kept active in the county, Sears will offer a definite amount of money each year to be used for awards and helping maintain and increase the pig chain. We are grateful for the interest that this organization has shown in sponsoring a project of this type and we feel sure that their efforts will be of value to the county.

Each of the projects visited showed that the club members had done an excellent job in feeding and caring for their animals. Each is to be commended for the job he has done, and next year we plan to have a larger number of boys participating in this project.

The nation's 1953 wheat production goal has been set at 72 million acres—about 8 per cent below the big acreage planted for harvest this year. With normal yields, this acreage would result in a crop of about 1,080,000,000 bushels of wheat.
