With the editor away in summer camp with the National Guard, it has been asked of me who would write this column. Smith asked the boss before they left if I was going to write it. The boss replied no one had asked him. So maybe I won't have a job when the boss sees the column with a new by-line.

The merchants of the town are staging Dollar Days this week. Much has been said about not shopping in Fayetteville. Now is a good time not only to get the specials that they are offering but to look over their other wares. Many of them have the same nationally advertised lines that you will find in other towns. Some people say they are cheaper here also. Could be true, as the overhead for a business in Raeford is cheaper than in the larger cities. So give the local merchante a chance.

During the week of July 11 N. H. G. Balfour and John Mc-Googan attended the National Convention for County Commissioners in Boston, Mass., where Mr. Balfour presented an address on the Hoke County-Fort Bragg land issue. Below is a letter received this week by Mr. Balfour which we think shows the manner in which it was presented: "Dear Mr. Balfour:

One of the earliest and certain ly the most pleasant of my duties as President of the National Association of County Officials is that of thanking you for your very splendid contribution to the recent conference of our Association. Such a splendid and timely address is rare under any circumstances but you are to be especially commended and thanked for your service in delivering it without charge. I wish to assure you, however, that your purpose of rendering a public service was fully accomplished. Please accept the thanks of myself personally and of the National Association of County Officials.

G. A. Treakle, President."

Last week at the courthouse I had a talk with J. A. McGoogan, county auditor. Being the first superintendent of schools in this county we wanted his viewpoint on the progress the schools have made since that time. At first he said he didn't know because he was going to Bogue Sound for a few days. Then he started telling me about the teacher load in Washington, D. C. compared with the teacher load in North Carolina. To my surprise the teacher load in Washington is greater than in this state. Thirty-six to thirtytwo, if I'm not mistaken. This information was from a Washington newspaper received by Mr. McGoogan from Charlie Howard.

After telling Mr. McGoogan that he would have a week to prepare the article for the paper, he consented to do it. So here is something we can all have to look forward to if it is half as good as his answer to the editorial in the Fayetteville Observer. The people of my age will see that things have changed even since we were in school.

Along with the article of Mr. McGoogan's, which will be in a 3rd, will be pictures, both old and new, of school buildings, football and baseball teams, and local citizens connected with the schools. We will also have write- parents in Detroit, Mich. ups of the schools at Ashemont, Mildouson and Rockfish. ### C. P. & L. Will Aid In Lighting Problem

Marion H. Gatlin, member of the town board, who is chairman of the street lighting committee, reports that the Carolina Power and Light Company will cooperate with the town of Raeford in its effort to get the wires and poles cleaned up or off of Main Street, In a letter received from the company they stated that Sam Mauney, their street lighting enhis first opportunity to talk over fire, a parachute is released and this problem. They are willing to floats the plane down to the do this work free of charge. Mr. ground. When hit by a burst from types of street lights now in use, one in Sanford and the other in will add greatly to the power cost

If this project is approved, it will be tried out for three blocks in the business section of Main Street. If the cost is not prohibitive, the new lights will be used all over town. It has been pointed out that the moving of the wires and poles from Main Street to the alleys might be expensive to some stores, because most of the present power connections are at the front of the buildings. The expense of wiring inside each building will have to be borne by the property owner.

Friday afternoon will be used to clean equipment in preparation for Saturday morning's inspection and parade. After the parade, men that do not have week end duty, will be free until Monday morning reveille.

Facilities available on the post for recreation include a swimming pool, three theatres, post exchanges, and all types of athletic fields and courts.

The food so far has been extremely good, and arrangements made in nearby Hinesville provide the men with speedy laundry service for their uniforms. Next week the local battery will join the other batteries in the battalion in a field maneuver which will begin Monday and run through Thursday afternoon.

Seventy-nine enlisted men and six officers from Raeford and Hoke County are under the command of Captain Edwin D. Newton, and along with outfits from Red Springs, St. Pauls, Sanford and Southern Pines, make up the mand of Lt. Col. William Lamont, Jr. of Raeford.

Wheat Controls Will Cover Crop Next Year the Merchants Committee.

Hoke County wheat growers voted 100 per cent in favor of strict marketing quotas on the 1954 crop in last week's nationwide referendum.

The tabulation by the Federal Agriculture Department showed that 361,392 farmers voted for the controls, while only 53,252 registered disapproval.

By accepting rigid marketing ontrols, the wheat farmers are assured of continued high government price supports.

Secretary of Agriculture Benon promised the nation's wheat producers this week that he will carry out the rigid control program they have voted for next year's crop "in an equitable and constructive manner.

Benson, who has indicated in the past a preference for a different approach to farm surplus problems, issued this public pledge of co-operation after preliminary returns from last Friday's nationwide referendum showed that wheat farmers favored strict marketing quotas on the 1954 crop by a 7-1 margin.

The agriculture secretary said he feels the farmers "have made wise decision-a decision in their own best interests."

He emphasized that his department furnished the farmers with all the necessary facts on which to base a decision and that this was one "objectively and without trying to influence the vote."

That top-heavy 87.2 per cent favorable vote set a new record for wheat referenda. It also was well above the two-thirds majority required by law.

Although the returns were department said it expects little change from that ratio when the final official count is in.

Elwood Avenue Being Repayed This Week

State road equipment was in town this week reworking the paving on Elwood Avenue eastward from the Bank of Raeford. This street had become one of the roughest streets in town in spite of being paved, and the work being done will save what is al-

While the work on Elwood Avenue was being done Highway Commissioner Forrest Lockey offered to pave Racket Alley, which runs from Elwood Avenue next to Dr. Matheson's office to Central Avenue between the hotel and McDonald's Esso Servicenter. This alley has the traffic of over 40 buses every day and really takes a beating. Lockey said that while the equipment was there it could be done with little extra expense and would not be charged to the town's paving allotment under the Powell bill, but would be charged to the equalization account which each highway commissioner has available for such items. It being a case of taking advantage of the situation as it existed, the town fathers did so, and the citizens of the town will undoubtedly be glad.
