Emergency Livestock Loans Now Available

Emergency livestock loans, authorized by recent legislation, are now available to eligible farmers in North Carolina. J. B. Slack, Farmers Home Administration State Director, announced today.

These loans will be made to established producers and feeders of cattle, sheep and goats, provided they have good records of operations, have a reasonable chance to succeed and are unable to obtain needed credit from other sources to continue their normal operations. Such loans will not be made to carry on commercial feed lot operations, to refinance existing debts except for payment of current incidental bills, or to enable a borrower to start livestock operations.

Special livestock loans will bear 5 per cent interest and may be made for periods up to 3 years. Borrowers will be expected to repay the loans as rapidly as they can. Each loan must be secured in the full amount by the personal obligation and available security of the borrower. The Government will not require present creditors to subordinate their liens, but borrowers will be expected to obtain standby agreements from their present creditors so they will have a chance to work out of their difficulties. Also, present creditors must be willing for a portion of the borrower's livestock income to be paid on the Government loan.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has designated the Farmers Home Administration as the agency to handle this emergency credit program, and has made Administrator R. B. McLeish administratively responsible for it at the national level. However, all loans must be approved by the special livestock loan committees appointed by the Secretary.

To serve as a temporary State special livestock loan committee for North Carolina, Secretary Benson has named the following: J. B. Slack, State Director, Farmers Home Administration; D. S. Weaver, State Director of Extension, and G. T. Scott, Chairman, State PMA Committee. This temporary committee was named in order to speed up processing of applications for assistance.

Application forms may be obtained at any county office of the Farmers Home Administration. They may be filed with the local county FHA supervisor or directly with the state special livestock loan committee.

State Plans Forums To Speed Industrial Development Plans

State-wide interest is being shown in plans of the State Board of Conservation and Development to step up efforts to bring more industries to North Carolina, especially in the smaller communities of the State.

This information is contained in word from Raleigh from Director Ben E. Douglas of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

In order to speed plans for securing new industries that will provide more jobs, Director Douglas points out ten "Development Forums" will be held in various places throughout North Carolina during the next six months, with the first scheduled for a nine-county area at Zebulon in Wake county on Tuesday night, August 18 at 7:30 p. m. in the Wakelon High School there. Governor William B. Umstead will deliver the keynote address at the Zebulon meeting.

The nine-county area includes: Franklin, Wayne, Johnston, Wilson, Granville, Nash, Vance, Warren and Wake. Governor Umstead, who is chairman of the State Board of Conservation and Development, has consistently emphasized the need for more new industries and the expansion of present industries so that not only more jobs will be provided for Tar Heel citizens, but that more tax dollars will also be provided, Douglas said, to carry on present State services without having to boost current State taxes.

Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., is chairman of the C. and D. Board's Committee on Commerce and Industry, the unit which is spearheading the all-out efforts to bring more industries to the State. Serving with Mr. Hanes on this important committee are: Leo Harvey, Kinston, vice chairman, Charles S. Allen, Durham, Carl Buchan, Jr., North Wilkesboro, Amos Kearns, High Point, Henry Rankin, Fayetteville and T. Max Watson, Forest City. All are recognized business leaders in their communities,

Douglas said. "These forums," Chairman Hanes explained, "are intended to extend the maximum assistance to the various communities of the State which are eager to encourage industrial development and to obtain the greatest possible cooperation from individuals and organizations for the State program."

All citizens interested in securing new industries for their communities are invited to attend the forum meetings, with special invitations to be sent mayors, town boards, city councilmen, county commissioners, members of Chambers of Commerce, city managers, promotional groups, and civic club members, Douglas said.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

QUESTION: How can I make my cut flowers last longer?

ANSWER: There are several processes, but the best, perhaps, is to add a chemical preservative with the trade name, Floral Life to the water. This material can be obtained at most floral shops and at some dime stores. It should be added to the water as directed, approximately one ounce to each quart of water. It is best to cut flowers early in the morning and place them in warm water and then put them in a cool room. Each day the stems should be cut and fresh warm water added.

QUESTION: What does a bee egg look like?

ANSWER: Of course the bee egg is quite small. It looks more like a link of sausage than an egg. It is pearly white in color and can easily be seen with the naked eye, although thousands of beekeepers have never seen the tiny egg that the queen places on end in the bottom of the cell. There is only one queen bee to lay the eggs in each hive. A good queen bee will lay 2,000 eggs in 24 hours. This is equal to her own weight in eggs in a single day.

To Our Cotton Growing Friends:

Oakdale Gin with its up-to-date machinery and experienced help is now prepared to offer you a superior ginning service again this year. We hope to have the pleasure of serving you. There is always a demand for high-grade, clean, white cotton, and an Oakdale ginned bale of cotton will have the top grade and will bring you the top dollar on the cotton market. Many of you will want to put your cotton in the government loan, and a sample of each bale ginned will be sent to the government for classification. If you do not desire to store your cotton, we will be glad to buy it at the highest market price possible.

An added incentive for ginning at Oakdale is the fact that we have a covered cotton platform to protect your baled cotton from the weather. Too, we are prepared to haul your cotton from your farm to our gin at a reasonable price. Phone either The Johnson Company - 550 or Oakdale Gin - 8741 and a truck will pick up your cotton.

Oakdale Gin has ample room for your cotton at all times, and we are looking forward to seeing you soon.

With best wishes,

Yours very truly,
OAKDALE GIN
