

Campaign Launched For Reducing Loss From Forest Fires

It's time to get outdoors again and the annual campaign by the Forestry Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to prevent forest fires is being stepped up.

This year an effort is being made to enlist the cooperation of the nation's youths as well as adults. Business firms also are being called upon to help. For example, arrangements have been completed for full color display pieces depicting an appeal by Smokey Bear, official symbol of the fire-prevention campaign, to be displayed in A&P Stores across the land.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company also is cooperating in the campaign to enlist the cooperation of the nation's youths by offering a Smokey Bear belt as a premium in its stores in conjunction with the purchase of Ann Page brand of beans and prepared spaghetti. Each youth who obtains one of these is eligible to receive an official Junior Forest Ranger kit from Smokey Bear Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Although the Smokey Bear Symbol was conceived in 1945, according to Clinton Davis, Director of Forest Fire Prevention for the Forestry Division, it was not adopted by the Forestry Division as a central figure until 1947 and has been used extensively ever since. There was an average of 219,000 forest fires annually prior to the inauguration of the Smokey Bear campaign. Since then the number has been reduced to an average of 185,000, even though thousands of additional people visit forest and woodland areas every year for pleasure, camping, hunting and fishing expeditions.

If it were not for the extensive fire-prevention program, of which the Smokey Bear symbol is the central figure, Davis estimates the number of fires would be running at the rate of between 300,000 and 350,000 annually because of increased use of forest areas. Because fires caused by people run in direct proportion to forest use by the public, we are grateful for as widespread support as possible to bring home the need for keeping down the high annual loss of our natural resources caused by fires, he said.

Snappy Dressings "Dress" The Salad

Want to have your praises sung as the best salad maker in the county? Then learn to make the dressing that is just right to go with your salad, says Virginia Wilson, State College extension nutritionist.

A little touch of seasoning can make the difference between a salad with personality and one that tastes flat. Miss Wilson adds that most salad dressings can actually be made from three basic recipes — French dressing, mayonnaise, and cooked salad dressing. No one dressing fits every salad. Make up a batch of different dressings to have on hand and then try adding a pinch of this and that until you get the flavor to suit your taste.

For a dressing that is quick and easy to make, try Miss Wilson's recipe for Mock Mayonnaise.

Mock Mayonnaise
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
1 cup oil
Cook flour and water until very thick. Pour hot mixture over egg, salt, lemon juice, or vinegar, and oil which have been thoroughly mixed. Beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth and well blended. Chill.

For a special treat, try serving a spoonful of mayonnaise on hot vegetables like broccoli, asparagus, or Brussels sprouts.

STATE COLLEGE HINTS TO FARM HOMEMAKERS

SAFETY SHOES — A medium-heeled, comfortable shoe is the only safe type to wear while doing housework. A high heel is a tripping hazard, weakens your back leg muscles and induces fatigue.

If you wear slacks while you work, wear them without cuffs. It's easy to catch your heel in a cuff, especially if the slacks are a little too long. It's easy, too, particularly while you're going down stairs, to catch your heel in a loose step such as this. Heels should be kept in good repair.

Wipe up grease or water spots or any other wet areas immediately — you'll need a cloth, a paper towel, or a newspaper.

HOUSEHOLD POISONS — Every household poison should have a printed label which gives the general classification of the poison and bears the skull and cross-bone symbol. If there are children in your household, never store poisons under the sink or in a low cupboard. Read all instructions carefully and wash your hands after using any poison.

BE CAREFUL WITH RAZOR BLADES — Always place used razor blades in a special container. Careless disposal of razor blades can cause serious cuts.
