It was there, big as life and bright as a dollar, right in the center of the front page and at the top, in the issue immediately preceding the Mildouson to-do. Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Week has been set for the week of May 16 by the Chamber of Commerce, I understand, and Angus Currie, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and teller at the Bank of Raeford, is to be chairman. Marion Gatlin and Kermit Wood are to be on the committee with him. If the results achieved are anything like those of last year it will be well worth the trouble. Just about all the business houses got busy and cleaned their premises last year, and a great many residents did a lot of work on the cemetery during the day of the week set up for that. Individuals will likely be hearing from members of the committee soon about what is planned, and we'll try to get the issue of next week

We have been offering two six-months subscriptions for the guessers of the identity of the farm home pictures each week.
