A little activity on the payyour-bills front has been reported in the past few days since it was definitely announced that a credit bureau would be activated at a meeting at the High School cafeteria Monday night. Following this meeting facts from the books of firms joining the credit bureau will be made available to the bureau for reporting on the paying habits of all customers. Some people have taken this information as a word to the wise and are getting their accounts in good shape. They say the road to bell is paved with good intentions, and I'm paving away, intending to keep anybody from saying I won't 'em. . another apt provert idea, though, to start this thing with as clean a slate as you can and maybe if some of my slow ones would come in, I could take Gatlin left last Thursday for a the stuff and get myself off the visit with relatives in Augusta, hook somewhere else, and round and round it would go. It has no home, they say.

due on the fact that Johnny Bob bitt, shortstop on the somewhat ill-fated Hoke County High Schoo baseball team this spring, wa for honorable mention the 1955 All-State squad by the rael Mann. Greensboro Daily News, Nineteen other players in the Southeastern AA association also received honorable mention and one, Gilber Watts of Laurinburg, was one of five pitchers named to the fire team. The Laurinburg team, how-ever, played in the final for the State Championship.

Back in the drawer where I throw things I might mention here sometime, and which got Highsmith Hospital on Tuesday shuffled in the moving, was a where she will be a patient for little note on a renewal slip from Dr. Watson Fairley, who preached years old until the year I left for the war. Dr. Fairley was some sort of an umpteenth cousin of my father's, and they were great friends as well, and I was proud to think he was my friend also, as he was. I remember about the year Dr. Fairley got here he carried me and my younger brother over to Manchester to his brother, Murchison Fairley's house where there was a litter of more or less collie puppies. We brought one and named him "Murk," as Dr. Fairley called his brother, now dead too. The dog was part of our family for the next 10 years, getting run over in the yard the day after my father died. Dr. Fairley used to say you could tell when my father had a note due at the bank, that it was the only time he came down town with a shave and a clean shirt. Now the note I got from Dr. Fairley a month or ply to one of my form letters after a $3.00 subscription, and it reads as follows, "You must have a note coming. You must have this little check, so promptly, now, today, right away, at once, poco prento. We enjoy every paper Hope you are all well Watson. Like the first word I ever heard from him, the last was full of affectionate good humor and becomes now a memory to cherish.
