

FARM ITEMS

By W. C. Willford & Frank Williams
County Agricultural Agents

The nation's farmers and ranchers are first custodians of much of the water used by our cities and industries and for recreation. Water reaches the land as rain or snow. The quality, quantity, and dependability of water supply for all people depend to a large extent on the way agriculture manages land and water resources.

Some of you have purchased feeder calves to feed out and sell next year. Below are listed some ideas for feeding and managing when using limited grain on grass. Calves should be watched closely for the first 30 days after they are bought. Separate and treat calves that show signs of shipping cold, pink eye, etc. Give calves free access to hay, water and salt and allow them to run on good pasture for the first three weeks after arrival on the farm.

Treat each calf with an individual dose of phenothiazine for worms and treat for lice three to four weeks after purchased. Use good quality feed and feed calves at the same time each day. These calves should gain 1 to 1 1/4 lbs. per head per day during the winter. Make maximum use of permanent pasture during the fall and winter and supplement with corn-silage or hay or ground corn and 1 lb. of protein supplement per head per day.

Hoke County's 4-H Clubs met this week with their topic of discussion being "It's Nice To Know How." Included in this were demonstrations on making introductions, meeting people on the street, courtesy at home, in restaurants, in meetings, etc. Courtesy is a word you need each day and the best way to conquer the rules of courtesy is to practice them every day.

4-H Club members taking crops projects are reminded that these record books are due at the County Agent's office Tuesday, November 1.

The Farm Bureau and the Grange are now trying to formulate plans to present to the next Legislature and Congress. Now is the time to attend meetings and express your desire to these organizations.

Anyone who is planning to visit up North during November will be interested in the International Livestock Exhibition which starts on November 23 in Chicago. It runs through December 3. The finest in livestock along with the finest in livestock shows will be on exhibit.

Don't forget to include forest projects in planning your 1960-61 farm plans. The ASC office can give you complete details about how much help they can give you.

In addition to being a good source of future income, forestry projects give you a good way to keep labor occupied during winter months.

U. S. exports of unmanufactured tobacco in July, of this year were down 10.9 percent from July, 1959. Latest estimates show, January-July exports this year were 6.5 percent less than for the same months in 1959.

FARMING AROUND
By Mark Welsh

Vacation for a cow? They need it, say Wisconsin dairy research specialists. A hard-working, high-producing dairy cow needs an eight-week vacation before having a calf and starting a new milking year.

This extra rest gives the milk-secreting glands a chance to repair damaged tissue and build new; the unborn calf gets all the vital food it needs for proper growth; the cow can replenish her store of minerals that suffer a heavy drain from milk and calf production at the same time and she has a chance to store up body fat that can be drawn on later when the going is tough.

If you cut her short on her rest and vacation, she usually cuts back on her total production—she just hasn't got it. Many smart dairymen inject the udder with an Aureomycin preparation to knock out any lurking mastitis organisms during the cow's dry period. This reduces the danger of udder trouble when the flood of milk comes after her calf is born.

A top dairy cow is the most profitable animal on the farm and she deserves the best of feed and care—and a long vacation.

It cost about $118 a year for the food of one person in the 1935-39 period and the same food now would cost $282 or nearly two and one-half times as much. But, today the actual cost per person is about $392 because we eat more and higher off the hog as well as off the lamb and beef too.

SADDLE BRONC RIDING by some of the top cowboy athletes of the nation will be one of the five competitive events of the RCA-approved State Fair Rodeo to be held daily in the Arena during State Fair Week at Raleigh, Oct. 11-15. Other professional events in each performance include steer wrestling, bull riding, calf roping and bareback riding of the bad horses.
