BREAD 'N BUTTER PLAY -- This is the basic play of the revamped Buck offense, as diagrammed by Coach Floyd Wilson. It sends two guards and three backs through the slot ahead of ball carrier Bill Howell. Wilson noted that, since installing the "gangbuster" series, halfback Howell has averaged better than 100 yards rushing per game. The Bucks swing back into action tomorrow night with a contest at Hamlet against the potent, once-beaten Red Rams.

Activities Around Antioch

Miss Maude James of Fairfax, Alabama who has been visiting her cousins, Mrs. Charles Redd and Mrs. Mae Humber, for three weeks left last Thursday for Washington, D. C. to visit a nephew.

Miss Sallie Thrower of Statesville visited her sister, Mrs. O. B. Covington and Mr. Covington last week.

Mrs. I. J. Holland has been a patient in Scotland Memorial Hospital for more than a week receiving treatment for a back injury received in a fall.

The Antioch Home Demonstration Club served supper to the Allendale, Antioch and Stonewall Ruritan Clubs last Thursday night in the Education Building of the Antioch Presbyterian Church.

H. D. Club Meeting

The Antioch Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. J. M. Andrews Thursday afternoon for its October meeting. Sixteen ladies were present. The president, Mrs. W. L. McMillan, opened the meeting with a short devotional, then introduced the leader for the club objective. Mrs. Andrews gave the demonstration on, "Apples in an Appealing Way", in the absence of Miss Hall. After this

Mrs. McMillan presided over the business meeting. Plans for the craft workshop and for Achievement Day were announced. The wool afghan the club is making was on display.

The club presented its president with a gift. She will go to New York to the United Nations on November 6.

The hostess served fresh apple cake with whipped cream, and other apple dainties with hot tea.

Bridge Party

Miss Jeannette McLaughlin entertained the members of the Antioch Bridge Club and a few invited guests on Friday night at the Laurinburg Teachers. Three tables were arranged for bridge and one for canasta.

After several progressions and scores were tallied, the high score prize for club members was won by Miss Sallie Liles and the guest prize was won by Miss Julia Tolar. In canasta Miss Sarah McKenzie was winner.

The hostess served strawberry ice cream pie and nuts with coffee to the following: Mrs. Archie Howard, Misses Sarah McKenzie, Lucille McLeod, Sallie and Willie Mae Liles, Mrs. Joan Ross, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Everleigh, David Liles, Mrs. George McLeod, Mrs. Rosalie Thompson, Misses Julia Tolar, Margie Campbell and Betsy McNeill from Laurinburg, and Mrs. Bernice Carter from Maxton.

Doug Currie is improving for the past several days at Scotland Memorial Hospital where he has been a patient for three weeks.

Miss Jeannette McLaughlin spent Friday night and Saturday with Mrs. Bernice Carter in Maxton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holland and two children spent a recent week end at Kure Beach.

Lloyd Gillis who has been a patient at the Sanatorium at McCain underwent surgery on Thursday of last week and is getting on very well.

The October general meeting of the Women of the Church of Antioch Presbyterian was held on Monday night in the sanctuary of the church.

Mrs. Sarah McDonald, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. J. M. Andrews led a short worship service, using only scripture reading and prayer.

Mrs. Archie Howard introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Cheves Ligon, Executive Secretary of the Fayetteville Presbytery. He brought an inspiring message on the special emphasis for the women of the church this year, "Go That We May Know."

Mrs. McDonald presided over the business meeting which followed the message. Reports and announcements were made of Presbyterian meeting and District Conference. Mrs. W. L. McMillan and Mrs. A. S. Baldwin were appointed as delegates to Presbyterian in Lumberton.

The Women of the Church are now getting out a news bulletin each month, mailing a copy to each woman before the circle meetings. It is proving helpful in many ways.

There was a splendid attendance at this first meeting of the year.

The Executive Board of the Women of the Church of the Antioch Presbyterian Church will meet next Sunday in the ladies Bible Classroom following church services. Every member is urged to attend.

The Rev. W. F. Little of Red Springs was guest minister at Antioch Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McMillan spent Sunday at the beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jones of Pottstown, Pa. were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Currie and family.

Miss Virginia Sue Gibson of High Point College spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gibson.

Miss Lena McNeill of Erwin was a Sunday guest of Miss Maggie McNeill and Mrs. Mary Sotherly.

Wool Fashions To Be Shown In Raleigh, Dec. 6

You are invited to be a model in the 15th annual "Make It Yourself With Wool" fashion show. That is, if your age is between 14-21.

Miss Martha Ann Hurt, clothing specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, says each girl can make a suit, dress, coat, or ensemble, for herself from 100 per cent American - loomed wool. American - loomed means that the wool has been made into fabric in a fabric mill in the United States. Imports are not acceptable.

"Each girl must model the outfit herself," says Miss Hurt. "The garment will be judged on color choice and fashion value, suitability of garment and accessories to the girl, fit of the garment and quality of workmanship."

There will be two age categories --- those between 14-17 and those 18-21. To make the wool garment, a commercial pattern or an original design may be used. Linings, underlinings, and facings may be non-wool fabrics. Every part of the garment, including buttonholes, trimmings, and fabric belts must be made by the contestant.

Written entry forms, which may be obtained from the local home economics agent, must be received from each contestant by November 3. All garments must be completed by November 30, at which time each girl will compete in a district contest. The top winners will enter the state contest in Raleigh, Dec. 6.

Miss Hurt says textile mills and other interested sponsors are presenting top prizes to the winners. They include dress and skirt lengths of Monroe on Sunday afternoon were J. D. Clark, W. B. McDiarmid, R. L. Gibson, Hector Watson, A. S. Baldwin and Douglas McPhaul.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Howard entertained for their daughter Susan's birthday with a dinner at Blanchard's in Lumberton on Sunday night. Those enjoying the dinner with Susan were Paula Burnett, Julia Jennings, Sherry Baldwin and Magina Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Everleigh and Mrs. J. A. McGoogan.

Misses Katherine and Jean Hodgins, Mrs. Sarah McDonald and Angus spent the week end at Myrtle Beach.

H. A. McKenzie and son, Hugh, and Lamor Bruner and son, Benny, spent last Saturday fishing at Holden's Beach.

June, July, and August are the killer months for traffic mishaps. Here's why they are so deadly: haste, alcohol, exhaustion. The North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles urges vacation bound Tar Heels to avoid unnecessary chances while driving. Slow down and live to enjoy life now.

HIGHER EDUCATION... We spent an interesting Friday and morning last Friday and Saturday as a member of Governor Sanford's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

Meeting in Chapel Hill the Commission heard spokesmen (in most instances the president) from all the state's institutions of higher learning discuss what they were doing and what they hoped to do during the next ten to fifteen years.

As many have heard, practically all the state's institutions of higher learning are filled to overflowing - particularly the dormitories. State College, the UNC Chapel Hill, Woman's College, Eastern Carolina College, Appalachian State Teachers College, Western Carolina College each turned away hundreds of students this fall for lack of housing facilities. The classroom and teacher capacity in most of the institutions is beyond the dormitory and housing capacity.

North Carolina is doing an outstanding job through its institutions of higher learning - but the job is growing each year as more and more boys and girls continue their education beyond the high school.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION Centers in North Carolina offer hope of a higher earning capacity for hundreds and thousands of boys who are not interested in continuing their liberal arts education. The several centers now in operation saw an enrollment of over 11,000 for the year 1959-60, and this year's enrollment is in the neighborhood of 16,000.

In our opinion the Industrial Education Centers can be, and will be, of tremendous help to a growing number of the boys and girls who do not for good reasons continue their schooling beyond the high school, and this comprises some 84 per cent of those who enter the first grade, as only some 16 per cent of those who enter the first grade go to college after their high school days, and only 5 per cent of those entering the first grade graduate from college.

GEORGE PENNY... North Carolina lost a colorful character of the old school with the passing of George T. Penny of Greensboro. During our freshman term as a member of the House of Representatives we used to go across the rotunda and hear George Penny talk from his Senate seat. He like to talk, particularly when the gallery was filled. And the people in the gallery liked to hear the homespun phrases of the orator from Guilford, who always liked to illustrate his remarks with an amusing story. George Penny was never the kind of man to shy away from venture or to bury his talent beneath a bushel. He was a born trader who liked his fellow-man.

EAST-WEST TRADITION... A few days ago someone called this writer's attention to the fact that the lieutenant governor's office has not always rotated from east to west. Hodges was elected from Rockingham, considered in the west, followed by Luther Barnhardt, from Cabarrus in the West, and Cloyd Philpott was elected from Davidson, also considered in the West. Come to think of it, Pat Taylor was elected from Anson in 1948 as Lieutenant Governor and Anson would be considered in the West so far as the East-West tradition is concerned. Looks like L. Y. Ballentine was the last Lieutenant governor from the East - Wake County being considered definitely in the East.

C. V. HENKEL... Former Senator C. V. Henkel of Statesville who ran second in the three-cornered race for lieutenant governor in 1960 is expected to test out the ruling of Attorney General Wade Bruton against filling the vacancy in the lieutenant governor's office at the next general election. The Attorney General having ruled against filling the vacancy at the next general election, the State Board of Elections would be expected to turn down Henkel's application to file. Henkel would then be expected to carry the case to court where it would go on to the Supreme Court for a final decision.

PLUGGING... In most every one of his many speeches Governor Sanford is plugging hard for the ten bond issues to be voted upon in the November 7 general election. But general interest is very, very light.

Flameless Electric Heat

SO CLEAN

yet SO reasonable in cost!

Dust-free as can be—that's electric heat. And your own experience with other electrical servants tells you why. For electric househeating is flameless, fumeless and completely free of soot and smoke.

But perhaps there may be some question in your mind as to whether this modern method of househeating is practical and reasonable in cost. The answer is yes. Electric heat compares favorably in operating cost with that of homes now using flame-type heating.

To help you decide if this safe, clean heat is practical for the home you plan to build, buy or remodel, just call your CP&L representative. Ask him to show you case histories and actual operating costs for Carolina families now heating their homes electrically.

We believe you'll find, just as they have, that the choice of flameless electric heat is a sensible and prudent investment in living comfort.
