National Geographic Book Explains Canada

WASHINGTON—When Upper and Lower Canada merged, the well-known cities vied to be chosen capital of the federated colony.

Bytown, a logging community of 10,000 people, resolved to try for the honor. Since the name lacked glamor, the town fathers changed it to Ottawa—an intriguing Indian word with a hint to it.

In 1857, to everyone's astonishment, Queen Victoria chose Ottawa as the capital. The town lay suitably centered between Upper and Lower Canada and far enough away from the American frontier to discourage invasion by the former enemy. "The Yanks wouldn't even be able to find it," muttered Ottawa's disappointed rivals.

This is one of many illuminating anecdotes in the National Geographic Society's new book, "Exploring Canada From Sea to Sea." The boundless diversity of Canada unfolds in its 208 pages and more than 200 full-color photographs. A large map of Canada is included with each book.

The nine authors of "Exploring Canada" cover everything from Manitoba's Flin Flon Trout Festival to changing the guard on Parliament Hill in Ottawa, from Toronto's modernistic city hall to Jasper, Alberta, where a bull moose once took over the water hole on the golf course.

Jules Billard captures the flavor of Montreal, whose 2,500,000 citizens enjoy life with a Gallic flair in superb restaurants, lovely parks, and discotheques.

Howard La Fay flew to a logging camp deep in Quebec. The forest, he learned, no longer echoes the crack of woodmen's axes. La Fay watched a monstrous new timber cutter at work.

"A single mechanic operated the harvester, as it lurched on caterpillar treads toward a stately 90-year-old spruce. Two great metal clamps locked the lower trunk in a lethal embrace. Suddenly the clamps shot upward; their cutting edges amputated every branch. A quick slice sent the crown of the tree toppling. Another hydraulic shears at the bottom severed the trunk at ground level."

Ralph Gray took the "muskeg express" from Winnipeg all the way north to Churchill on Hudson Bay. Friends told him it would be a unique rail-road experience: "You can sip refreshments in the lounge while watching the sun and the last three cars sink slowly into the muskeg."

The noted Canadian writer Alan Phillips describes the chinook, a phenomenal wind from the west that sweeps across the Canadian Rockies:

"It screams through the passes, reaching speeds as high as 100 miles an hour.

"Exploring Canada From Sea to Sea" may be obtained only by direct order from the National Geographic Society, Dept. 405, Washington, D. C. 20038; cost, $4.25, plus 25 cents for postage and handling.

Most large daily newspapers with Sunday editions accept for publication a certain amount of poetry. Here, merit is an important measure of the poem's chances of making it into print. They rarely deal with "in memoriam" material.

There ought to be some way to encourage young poets, for certainly they will be discouraged if none of their deathless verse is printed. Actually, there are a number of poetry magazines and other publications that offer a market (although sometimes there is no pay), but submissions from bona fide poets quickly claim most of their space.

If you are a household poet, bless you. Keep writing (and crying, if poetry moves you to tears).

Just don't write on the walls of "His'n and 'Her'n." That's sacred space.

crashed into the rear of it. McFaul had sent a passenger in his truck to a service station about three-tenths of a mile away and was waiting for his return, Coen said.

Monroe was charged with failure to decrease speed in time to avoid an accident.

At 7:55 a.m. Thursday, a pickup truck operated by Brenda May Spencer, 17, of Aberdeen Rt. 1, skidded on wet pavement near Timberland on N.C. 211, went down a slight embankment, and crashed into a utility pole, Coen said.

The pickup truck attempted to pass a school bus when it went into a skid, Coen said.

Two other students were in the truck. They were Debora Rena Mayes, 8, and Sherry Clayden Spencer, 11, both of Aberdeen Rt. 1. Brenda Spencer and Debora Mayes were admitted to Moore Memorial Hospital, but were not believed to be seriously injured, Coen said.

Saturday afternoon at 5:20, three cars crashed in an accident - type rear - end accident on U.S. 401 near the Catholic church, Coen said.

All three drivers were from outside this area. They were Sgt. Caesar Lamar Brown, 20, Fort Meade, Md., James Thomas Baskins, 16, Cheraw, S. C., and Pfc. Ronald Everett Smith, 21, Fort Bragg.

Coen said the three cars were traveling south when Smith stopped behind a Jeep which was attempting to make a turn off the highway. The Baskins vehicle stopped behind Smith, and the Brown car plowed into it, knocking it into the rear of the Smith car, Coen said.

Brown was charged with failure to decrease speed in time to avoid an accident and Smith was charged with improper registration, Coen said.

Tuesday night, an unidentified man apparently was struck by a hit-run driver on 401 Bypass at the intersection of Raeford-Vass Road, Coen said.

The man, who appeared to be about 65, was one of several persons living in a house trailer nearby, Coen said, and had been across the road to get water from a store.

He said the man's grandson started to the store and saw his grandfather crawling off the highway. He had a broken ankle, Coen said.

The trailer has been at that location for about a month, Coen said, and is occupied by palm readers.

Coen said the man was to have been identified Wednesday morning when he went to Highsmith-Hainey Hospital in Fayetteville to complete his report.

Town board also voted to move the polling place downstairs from the second floor of town hall. It will be set up in the area customarily occupied by the fire truck.

A number of citizens have complained in recent elections that the climb of stairs to the second floor was too hard on elderly people and persons with heart conditions and other ailments.

The board also voted to accept Hoke Planning Board's recommendation to rezone a lot on Maxwell Street to permit a house trailer to set up there.

Boundaries of the new precinct are defined, in legal terms, in a Board of Elections advertisement on Page 9 of this issue of The News-Journal.

Generally speaking, the southern boundary of the precinct is the northern town limits of Raeford. The eastern and northern boundaries are formed by Rockfish Creek. It then comes southward along Baker Road to Aberdeen Cut-off at Upchurch High School, then down the paved road from in front of the school toward the West Prospect underpass, making a junction with the northern town limits.

The remainder of the registration.

Read I John 3:1-8

If we say we have committed no sin, we make him out to be a liar, and then his word has no place in us. (I John 1:10 N.E.B.)

Several years ago, I suffered some severe lacerations in a motorcycle accident. I went to a doctor to seek relief from my pain, but in treating my wounds he made my pain more intense. He first scrubbed my wounds with soap and water. Not until he had scrubbed out all the grease and road dirt did the doctor bind up my broken skin. It was painful treatment, but if the doctor had spared me that pain, my wounds could have caused infection and more pain.

The healing of the Great Physician is something like that. It hurts to know ourselves as sinners. But we must have confidence in him that he can do for us what needs to be done. Unless God's word of judgment first washes away our self-deception, we can never know the healing, the joy, the life that His mercy and forgiveness can bring.

PRAYER: Dear Father, grant us the courage to accept Thy judgment of us as sinners. May Thy word of grace find a place in us to heal and save us; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son and our Savior. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: If we are to have God's mercy, we must be willing to listen to His judgment.

for four years of study at UNC. Students from throughout the country compete. This year, a record 104 awards were made.

As a student, Senter is vice president of the senior class, chief marshal, co-captain of the basketball and baseball teams, and attended N. C. Governor's School (a summer program for exceptionally gifted students).

Morehead awards first were presented in 1951. They are granted on the basis of outstanding merit as reflected in academic ability, character and leadership. Need is not a factor.

Announcement of the annual awards were made by Hugh G. Chatham of Elkin, chairman of the board of trustees, John Motley Morehead Foundation.

Senter's accomplishment was greeted with pride and praise at Hoke High School, where principal Rex Autry, faculty, and friends extended their congratulations.

Charged with breaking and entering and larceny in that case are George Walker 36, of Raeford; Charles Jiles, 29, of Lumberton; Neil McGeachey, 30, of rural Hoke County, and Fred McGeachey, 19, of Raeford. All four are Negro.

Stanton's department also has recovered a typewriter stolen during a January break-in at the high school. The machine was located in a Bennettsville.

Pearly Gates

A morning glory of shining white which will bloom all summer long can grace your garden.

The imaginative name in the title above is that of a morning glory. As you can guess, its flower color is shining white.

Morning glories give so much for so little. They bloom from July until frost and are easily grown from seeds planted in full sun.

A spot protected from high winds is ideal and rich soil is to be avoided so vines do not produce excessive foliage.

Vines grow 8 feet and more high, provide shade as well as flowers.

If your wife plays the WEATHER GAME

... you may be the loser!

Bad drying weather can be embarrassing for the man going places. With an electric dryer, your wardrobe is wear-ready all the time—regardless of the weather. Electric drying reduces ironing time for the wife and makes permanent press garments ready to wear. And because an electric dryer is flameless, clothes dry fluffy-soft and odor-free.

An electric clothes dryer is economical—it costs less to buy than comparable flame-type models and operates for only a nickel per average load of clothes.
