

GETTING READY TO ROLL - The library has a new bookmobile to replace the one that has been in use twice a week since 1954. The old bookmobile was purchased 16 years ago for $3,478.18, but with the rising costs of almost everything over the years, the new red and white bookmobile cost the county $9,189.59. Mrs. Louise McDiarmid and Mrs. Letitia Conoly, bookmobile operators, will be ready to roll in a few days when the new traveling library is loaded.

Hoke ASCS News

By THOMAS R. BURGESS

On September 1, ASC community committee election ballots will be mailed to all known eligible farm voters, according to H.O. Carter, State Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Farm voters may vote for up to three of the candidates listed, or they may write in their choices on lines provided at the bottom of the ballot. To be counted, all ballots must be properly signed and mailed or returned to the County ASCS Office by September 11. Votes will be tabulated September 15, 1970 at 9:30 A.M. in the Hoke County ASCS Office.

In each of the ASC communities in the county, three community committeemen and two alternates will be elected. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes becomes chairman; the second largest vote-getter, vice-chairman; third-high, regular member; fourth and fifth highest become first and second alternates who may serve on the committee if regular members are temporarily absent or if a permanent vacancy occurs.

ASC community committees are elected for one-year terms, beginning October 1.

Carter said, "It's very important that farmers elect their most qualified farm-neighbors for community committee posts. These community committees elect the County ASC Committee and choose its officers. They also assist the County ASC Committee in local administration of Government farm programs and help keep farmers informed on how the programs affect individual farm operations."

Any farm owner, tenant, or sharecropper who is of legal voting age may vote if he has an interest in a farm and is eligible to participate in any ASCS program administered in his community. Others who may vote are: A wife who jointly operates a farm with her husband; a minor who supervises and conducts the farming operation of an entire farm; a legal guardian who manages a farm for a child; and a person representing a legal entity such as a partnership or corporation.

The State Executive Director pointed out that producers who have farm interest in more than one community may select the community in which to vote, but may vote in only one community in the county.

Voting by proxy is not allowed. Voters who certify their ballots with an "X" for a signature must do so before a witness and obtain the signature of the witness in order for the ballot to be counted.

"A list of known eligible voters is open for inspection at the County ASCS Office. Any person who believes he is an eligible voter but who is not listed should get in touch with the County ASCS Office as soon as possible," Carter said.

He also said that any voter who has not received a ballot in the mail within a few days after September 1 should call the County ASCS Office to arrange to receive a duplicate ballot if necessary.

Local Business

Is there any type of business which can not gain from advertising?

What about the companies which have no specific product for sale? What about the corporations which operate under near-monopoly status? Such companies do advertise. They are often big advertisers. A glance at any newspaper or magazine shows that fact.

Major railroads such as the Illinois Central advertise in small newspapers across the country. Electric power companies, gas companies, and telephone companies are major newspaper advertisers.

On the local level, banks, industries, and various associations are frequent users of newspaper advertising. These companies advertise, because like the retailer, they have something to gain from advertising. The aims of corporate, or institutional, advertising are several.

A big company may hope through advertising to build a company image of which employees can be proud. The advertising may result in better labor relations and more efficient performance.

Company advertising may influence public opinion and public officials to help create a legislative climate more favorable to a business.

Funds for expansion come from investments and loans. Advertising builds public confidence in a company attracting investment capital and influencing bankers, brokers and underwriters.

Autry Explains Dress Code, Rules

The dress code and school rules at Hoke High School were outlined this week by principal Raz Autry in a letter to parents.

- The dress code for boys is:
1. A standard haircut.
 2. Sideburns no lower than bottom of the ear lobe (straight down.)
 3. Socks are to be worn during the school day and at all school events.
 4. Shirt tails are to be inside pants during the school day and at all school events.
 5. Sun glasses are not to be worn inside the building.
 6. Clean shaven.

The dress code for girls is:

1. Clothes are to be suitable and in good taste for school year at all times.
2. Skirts and dresses are to be no more than 4 1/2 inches above the top of the knee cap. Proper undergarments are to be worn with skirts.
3. A slip is to be worn under sheer blouses and dresses.
4. Blouses and shirts, except those especially designed to be worn on the outside, are to be kept inside skirts.

5. General appearance is to be always one of which both the student and the school will be proud.

6. Sun glasses are not to be worn inside the school building.

Autry explained the rules and penalties.

1. No chewing gum: The second offense for chewing gum will result in a two day suspension or the student must bring his parents back to school.
2. Disrespect to a teacher: First offense will mean a two day suspension. Second offense is a two week suspension and third offense will result in being permanently expelled.
3. Stealing: First offense will result in being permanently expelled.
4. Being tardy to class: First offense will bring a warning. Second offense may result in two days suspension or having to bring parents to school. A combination of being tardy without an excuse and chewing gum will result in two days suspension or having to bring parents back to school.

5. Skipping school will result in two days suspension.

6. No student will be excused to go to the dentist, doctor or any other place unless the parents call the school. There will be no exceptions to this rule.

7. Notes will be required in parent's handwriting for absentees.

8. Fighting: Punishment for fighting will be judged on the basis of what is the best punishment to protect the total student body. The punishment will be no less than two weeks suspension, or expulsion for a year.
