Be kind to one another. tenderhearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you. (Ephesians 4:32, RSV)

While I waited at the bus stop, I met a man who seemed to have the problems of the world on his shoulders. God presented this opportunity me to witness. I witnessed, but how I did it bothered me. As the man talked to me about his problems, I quickly detected that he had been drinking. Rather than show compassion, I was infuriated by the smell of liquor on his breath. Rather than listen or try to help with a kind word, I turned my back.

Who was I to judge him? Was I supposed to set myself apart from him? Could I not have taken a few minutes to listen to him? I could have witnessed to my faith in Christ and spoken to him of the way of salvation. He offers to everyone. What must Christ have
