Hurricane Hunter Keeps Weather Watch For Storms

AGUADILLA' Puerto Rico - Staff Sergeant William J. Huston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lamot R. Huston of 815 Virginia Ave., Johnstown, Pa., has a unique job with the U.S. Air Force's 53rd Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico - hunting hurricanes.

Sergeant Huston, a WC-130 Hercules aircraft maintenance technician, and fellow airmen of the famed "Hurricane Hunters," are keeping an around-the-clock weather watch over the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean for the new season's hurricanes.

Operating from their home station at Ramey Air Force

Base, the Hurricane Hunters - alternating with Navy flight crews - provide storm surveillance of the Atlantic coast east of Puerto Rico and track tropical storms off the U.S. coastline from Texas to Maine. The watch covers one and one-half million square miles of ocean and gulf waters.

The crews, in specially equipped Hercules, locate hurricanes and then fly into the teeth of the killer storms - which generate winds from 75 to 200 miles per hour - to obtain vital data to feed to the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

The obtain statistics such as temperature, pressure, humidity, winds, cloud structure, movement and position. The "Hunters" research the lower 10,000 feet by dropping radiosonde equipment by parachute and record signals throughout its descent.

Timely warnings which result from such flights by the Hurricane Hunters save countless lives and millions of dollars worth of damage each year.

In the past five years, 11 hurricanes have struck the United States. Last year's Hurricane Celia, which struck a devastating blow to the Corpus Christi and Arkansas Pass area, was the most costly storm ever to strike the Texas Coast - causing more than $454 million in property damage. Information supplied by 53rd crews allowed the National Hurricane Center to accurately track the killer storm and provide ample warning time to residents of the Corpus Christi area.

The Hurricane Hunters begin their annual vigil June 1 and continue the watch through Nov. 30 - the length of the official hurricane season in the Atlantic.

Sergeant Huston, a 1964 graduate of Johnstown High School, has served in Vietnam. His wife, Joyce, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie L. Phillips of 270 Dickson, Raeford.

Scouting Around

After a 20-day trip to Japan including attendance at the XIII World Jamboree, 5 Scouts arrived home on Thursday, August 19th, according to Rogers Clark, Council Activities Chairman, for the Cape Fear Council, Boy Scouts of America.

While the Jamboree camp site was disrupted by a typhoon, the Scouts and their leaders were housed in schools, temples, etc., and the full program of the Jamboree was carried out.

Reports from Japan while the Scouts were at the World Jamboree indicate that the youthful travelers will be overflowing with stories of their tour of the 2,000-year-old civilization in cities like Nikko, Kyoto, Nara, and Koshigaya, Clark said. Other experiences included the visit to Tokyo and the ride on the world's fastest train to the jamboree site at the base of Mt. Fuji.

The jamboree was attended by over 21,000 Scouts and leaders representing more than 100 countries. The Boy Scouts of America had over 7,000 representatives at the international gathering.

From the 6:00 a.m. wakeup time each morning at the jamboree through the special evening program, the Scouts competed in skill contests, sampled each other's food, learned other nations, crafts, and gained a better understanding of each other, Clark said. The 9-day experience at the jamboree showed that the common bond of Scouting overcame differences in language, customs, race and religion.

Following their return home the Scouts will be available to speak at the civic clubs and other functions, if invited. Those attending the World Jamboree from the Cape Fear Council were Homer Wright of Wilmington, Alex Maultsby, Jess Coburn and Bill Smith of Whiteville, and Richard Mauldin of Lumberton.

Rogers Clark also announced

Golden eagles dive on their prey with such speed and force that the sound of the wind whistling through their wingtip feathers can be heard at a distance.

EAGLE SCOUT - Anderson Hostetler attained the highest rank in Boy Scouting Sunday when he became an Eagle Scout. The distinction was conferred by his pastor, the Rev. Jack Mansfield, during worship services at First Baptist Church. Anderson, a senior this year at Hoke High, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hostetler of Raeford. His scoutmaster is Robert Averette.
