

Army Group Visits Hoke Tuesday

DEDICATION - Dr. McLucas, speaking briefly after lunch, praised the dedication shown by the military workers in the health program here and praised also the cooperation and helpfulness shown by county residents to the program.

LEAVING - C.D. Bounds, Chamber president, says good-bye to Dr. McLucas and Gen. Hay after the luncheon. The group then flew to Anson County to inspect an Army project there.

COMING DOWN - One of the nine helicopters bringing the guests to the county lands on the athletic field behind Hoke High Tuesday.

WELCOME - Mr. and Mrs. Jake Austin greet Dr. John L. McLucas, under secretary of the Air Force, and Lt. Gen. John H. Hay, commander of XVIII Airborne Corps and Ft. Bragg, as they arrive at the civic center. The ropes shown marked a pathway from the school practice field where they helicopters landed to the back of the civic center.

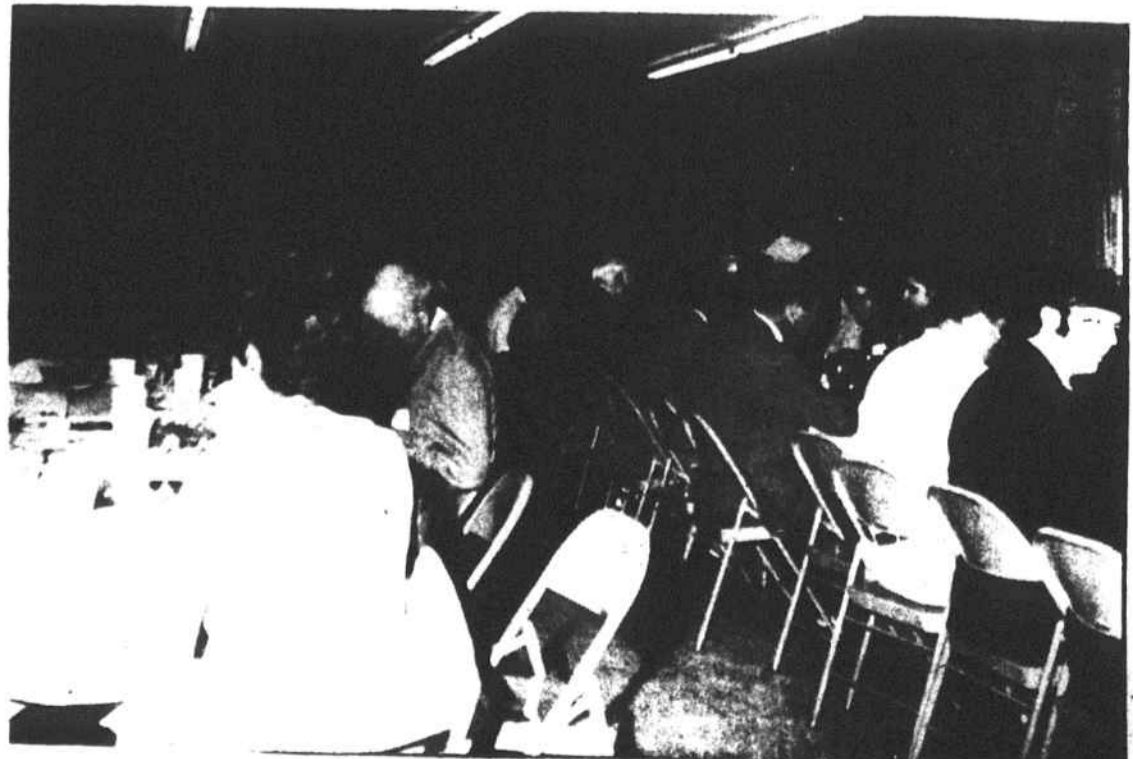

A FEW WORDS - Rep. Alton Lennon spoke briefly at the luncheon hosted by the Chamber of Commerce. Programs such as the Army is doing in Hoke County would do much to erase the poor image of the military, he said.

GET TOGETHER - CPT George T. Reavell, Special Forces doctor working at the county health center and Clyde Upchurch, Jr., (back to camera) talk to Pentagon visitors before lunch.

MINGLING - Pentagon and Army visitors chat with county residents over sherry at the Raeford Civic Center before the luncheon given by the Raeford-Hoke Chamber of Commerce.

LUNCH - About 112 people were served at the luncheon sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. The menu included ham, turkey, vegetable salad, sliced tomatoes, cranberry sauce, rolls, sherbert and iced tea.
