Corner Folk Concert

Q - What is the maximum VA loan available for a mobile home?
A - For the purchase of a mobile home only, it is $10,000 payable over 12 years and 32 days.
Q - I withdrew from school under the G. I. Bill at the end of the semester two years ago, and plan to return to the same school to pursue the same program. How do I start my benefits again?
A - You should notify the school to submit a re-enrollment certification to VA. This would start your benefits again, provided you have not exhausted your entitlement and the school and program are currently approved.
Q - My deceased father was a VA pensioner. Because of a childhood accident, my sister is unable to work, and will never be able to do so. Is she eligible for a pension?
A - The VA considers a helpless child as one who became permanently incapable

REA Hears Taylor

Lt. Governor Pat Taylor and gubernatorial candidate for 1972 was guest speaker at Lumber River Electric Membership Corporation's 31st Annual Meeting of Members in Red Springs yesterday.

Addressing an audience of more than 600 people, Taylor spoke at length on the State of North Carolina, its growth in industry and urban development. He pointed out that North Carolina is the twelfth largest state in size and ranks fortieth in population - and that North Carolina did not have the congested urban problems of the large cities in other states because we are developing our rural areas and our people are not moving to the cities. He further stated that Lumber Electric and other Cooperatives had provided the basis for the rural growth by providing electricity, and it is up to the people of the state to continue this progress.

Manager D.J. Dalton discussed the increased interest rate on loans to the Cooperative and the 32% increase in wholesale power cost. He pointed out that with the recent rate increase, the member's average cost per KWH is less than it was in 1962.

Neil A. Watson gave the treasurer's report, citing increased taxes and operating cost. He stated that the Cooperative now serves more than 12,000 meters and has a plant value in excess of seven million dollars.

Davis K. Parker of Route 4, Fayetteville, and J.W. Hunt of Route 1, Fairmont, were elected to the organization's Board of Directors. Hubert Prevatte of Route 1, Pembroke, was reelected to another term on the Board.

The Cooperatives new president is Cecil S. Dunn of Route 1, Lumber Bridge. W.B. McDiarmid of Red Springs was elected vice president; Hubert R. Prevatte, secretary and Neil A. Watson, Route 1, Maxton, treasurer.

Other Board members are Eli F. Murray of Route 2, Laurinburg, and C.A. Pendergrass of Route 3, Raeford.

Entertainment for the meeting was furnished by the Harvesters Quartet and attendance prizes were awarded.

Some people can save enough on heating this winter to cover the cost of cooling next summer.

It costs around $40 to run two window air conditioning units for the summer.* And it is possible for some people to actually save this amount on their heating bills this winter.

Exactly how much you will be able to save depends on where you live, how cold the winters and how hot the summers.

But regardless of where you live, and the type of heating system you now have, the following suggestions can help you reduce the cost of heating your home this winter.

The trick is to keep the cold air out, while keeping the warm air in.

You can begin by doing little things like closing your fireplace damper, opening the drapes on windows exposed to sunlight (and closing them at night), and caulking or taping around all windows and doors.

Washington $1.25 Raleigh $1.50 Asheville $2.00
See how much money you can save each heating season by installing storm windows (C.P.L.)

You can reduce heating costs by as much as 15 percent simply by installing storm windows and doors. Not a bad investment.

Investing in insulation is like investing in the bluest of blue chips.

In our area, insulation will pay for itself in about 3-5 years. After that, it will return 20-33 percent of your original investment year after year after year.

According to the President's advisor on consumer affairs, fuel savings for homes insulated to the minimum FHA standards soon pay for the total cost of insulation.

*Based on national averages compiled by the Edison Electric Institute. It should be noted that all other figures cited above are averages and that individual circumstances may vary.

So the real issue isn't whether you can afford to install proper insulation. It's a matter of whether you can afford not to.

Another way to cut five, ten or fifteen percent off your heating bill.

Even if your home is well insulated and airtight, you can cut your bill even more.

A 70 degree setting is about 20 percent cheaper than a 75 degree setting.

For every degree under 75 degrees that is comfortable for you to live in, you can save about 4 percent on heating cost.

So find the lowest comfortable setting and leave your thermostat there.

And don't forget to turn off radiators and thermostats in rooms not being used.

CP&L heats thousands of homes so why are we telling you how to cut your bill?

All heat-producing fuels (coal, oil, gas, even electricity) need conserving.

And while we want to sell you all the electricity you need, we don't want to sell you more than you need.

This explains the "ad" you're reading now. It also explains why we have prepared a free booklet that goes into the specific details on these and many other ways you can cut the cost of heating your home.

We hope you will send for your free copy today. Because it will show you how a long, warm winter can help you enjoy a long, cool summer.

Carolina Power and Light. We think there is more to our job than generating electricity.
