

First Place Tied In Bowling League

By Tom Walker
Webb's Tire Service, behind the hot hand of Bill Hendrix, maintained a share of first place as they rolled over United & Independent Credit Union 3-1.
Hendrix, who previously bowled with perennial champions Ginger's Towel Shop in the Raeford Merchants' League, blazed to a 612 series in leading his team to victory last week. His three-game series included singles of 197, 245 and 170.
His efforts won him the league lead in three categories: high game scratch, high series scratch and high average scratch.
Meanwhile, defending champion House of Raeford was moving into a tie for the league lead behind Howard Taylor's 205 single. House of Raeford took the measure of WSHB 4-0.

Veteran's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q - My husband was a World War II veteran. He passed away recently, and I am wondering if he is eligible for a headstone?

A - Yes. Any deceased veteran whose last period of military service was terminated honorably is eligible for this benefit administered by the Army.

Q - Can I be released from liability for a home I bought with a GI loan if my job requires transfer to another location?

A - Yes, if the loan is current, the buyer agrees to assume your liability, and VA accepts him as a good credit risk. A release from liability does not automatically restore your GI home loan entitlement, however. A separate application must be submitted to VA for that.

Q - After serving in the Army from 1959 to 1961, I was permanently and totally disabled in an automobile accident. Am I eligible for a non-service connected pension from the Veterans Administration?

A - No. To be eligible, a veteran must have served during a period of war. Service after Jan. 31, 1955, and before Aug. 5, 1964, is peacetime service.

Institute Strikes Out At Trapping

Over 30,000,000 animals are trapped annually to satisfy the "barbaric vanity of humans," according to Belton P. Mouras, President of the Animal Protection Institute of America.
"What is equally, if not more, horrendous," says the head of the Sacramento-based organization, "is that 90% of these animals are captured in steel-jaw leghold traps which crush paws and break bones yet leave the animal alive and in agony."
API has instituted a national campaign against trapping cruelties, a campaign encompassing importation bans on furs taken in such traps and a widespread humane education and publicity program.
Trapping is touted for various reasons, continues Mouras - for profit, sport, game management. "yet, upon examination, these arguments fall apart."
"Almost any other employment, given identical effort, would be more profitable," asserts the animal welfare veteran. The 1970-71 estimated price for opossum pelts was 35 cents each, for raccoons $1.12; with "the bulk of the profit going to furriers and numerous middlemen."
According to Mouras, "sport" normally entails wholesome competition and a contest of skills, conditions totally lacking in the torturous (for the animal) activity of trapping.
The argument of trapping as a tool of game management, declares the API President, completely ignores the concept of natural selection and the food supply - predator cycle.
"Traps are indiscriminate and thus do not control surplus animals as trappers contend. A set trap will catch any animal - wild or domestic, fur animal or pet - that steps into it."
As a service of API's anti-trapping campaign, brochures are available on request. Send inquiries to the Animal Protection Institute, P.O. Box 22505, Sacramento, Calif.

Family Planning And Health

Dear Mrs. Riggsbee:
I enjoy reading your column in the newspaper each week, and I think you are just the one to answer this question for me.
I am 14 years of age and have had sex three times with a boy four years older than I am. Do you think the next time I have sex I will become pregnant? I am not taking or using anything and neither is he.
Please answer me quickly.
M.G.

Dear M.G.:
I certainly hope you're not pregnant by the time you read this. ANYTIME you have sex without using birth control correctly you can become pregnant. It only takes ONE time, and you can become pregnant the FIRST time you have sex. If 100 women have regular sexual relations for a year without using a good method of birth control correctly, about 80 of them will be pregnant before the year is out.

At 14 you are hardly ready to take care of yourself properly much less take on the many responsibilities involved in being a mother. Sex is not a game for children; it involves many responsibilities. You and your boyfriend are certainly not thinking very clearly. What about the responsibilities you have to yourselves as individuals who have the right to grow up and find out who you are and what you think before you bring a family into the world? And you are certainly not thinking about the baby you could have. What kind of mother can you possibly be at 14?
A lot of people your age think it's "grown up" to engage in sex. But think about it again. How grown up is it for a person to engage in sex who doesn't even understand enough about her body to realize that she could become pregnant anytime she engages in sex? Let's face facts: intercourse causes babies. If you don't want to get pregnant, and I certainly hope you don't, you have two choices: 1. Don't engage in sex or, 2. Care enough about yourself to find out how your body works and use a good method of birth control correctly every time.

Dear Mrs. Riggsbee:
My girl and I have a very serious problem. We think she is pregnant and we are wondering what we can do to stop it. Is there anything she could take to flush her out? Some people say that black coffee with a lot of seasoning would do it. Other's say castor oil would. We think you give good advice, so we decided to write you. Please reply quickly.

Dear Mr. W.:
There is absolutely nothing your girlfriend can take to cause an abortion. Don't listen to these ridiculous rumors about coffee and castor oil and please, don't be talked into going to an illegal abortionist. As soon as you read this call your local health department and make an appointment for your girl friend to have a pregnancy test. If she is pregnant, talk to the people at the health department about the possibilities of a legal abortion.

Let me say again: Don't let your girlfriend take anything - it won't work and could seriously harm her if not kill her. Also, don't even consider an illegal abortion. Your girl friend's life could easily depend on the good sense you and she use in this matter.

WALTER COLEY
As we grow older, we usually need less food. We slow down our activities but keep putting away that good food like growing teenagers. No one can feel young and peppy when carrying excess weight - it is tiring, hard on the heart, and a threat to health. A well balanced diet is most important - lean meat, cereals, fresh fruit and vegetables. Skim milk may be one good way to cut down on excess fats while retaining milk's wholesome proteins and vitamins. Get rid of that excess weight and discover how much more fun life can be.

The Galifianakis Record

Where Was Nick?

THEY'RE AFTER YOUR CHILDREN

Experts say the drug addict teaches an average of 6 other people his habit.

Especially young people. The addicts prey on the unsuspecting. Research shows their easiest targets are the teenagers who don't understand that heroin kills.

Congress is Trying to Help

This year there were four major votes in the House of Representatives on the civilian aspect of the drug problem. They were important votes. On good bills.

One Congressman Didn't Help

Of the four major drug votes Congressman Nick Galifianakis of the 11th district of North Carolina missed Every One.

NICK GALIFIANAKIS HAS A 100% ABSENTEE RECORD ON THESE DRUG VOTES

His record reads as follows:
on Feb. 3 Galifianakis absent
on Feb. 3 Galifianakis absent
on Mar. 16 Galifianakis absent on May 1 Galifianakis absent

We need a senator who will devote his full efforts to fighting the drug problem. A senator who will be there to introduce and vote for new and effective drug measures.

We need a senator who cares about drug addiction and young people.

"Where's Nick?"

A Congressman who was present for all four anti-drug votes told us that during the roll calls he would look across the floor of Congress at Galifianakis' empty desk and ask himself, "Where's Galifianakis? Where's Nick?"
You know what.

Everytime we see a Galifianakis sticker, everytime we see a Galifianakis billboard, everytime we see one of those expensive Galifianakis TV ads, we think about those missed drug votes.

We think about the addicts who are trying to kill your children. And we ask ourselves the same question: "Where was Nick?"
