Hoke ASCS

By Thomas K. Burgess

Appraisal necessary for farmers making disaster claims, USDA points out - Producers participating in the upland cotton, feed grain and wheat programs who plan to abandon crops planted on allotment acreage and damaged by natural disaster should have the crops appraised before putting the land to other use, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

Under the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 a producer may qualify for a special feed grain, cotton or wheat payment when a natural disaster causes crop damage.

Department officials advise a producer whose allotment land is struck by a disaster to report the disaster damage to the county ASCS office; before putting the crop or land to another use, have an ASCS official or his designated representative appraise the damage; and after the appraisal is completed the acreage will be released by ASCS for other uses.

If the producer should decide to harvest the damaged crop after it is appraised, he must report the harvested production to the county ASCS office. If after appraisal he grazes and then harvests the appraised crop, eligibility for payment purposes will be determined on the basis of the higher of the appraised production or the actual harvested production.

U.S. soybean supplies climb - Soybean supplies in the nation may be up one-tenth for the 1974-75 marketing season, according to W.T. Reece, state executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The increase is due to bigger beginning stocks, Reece said.

USDA's Economic Research Service reports that the 1974 crop could hit 1.54 billion bushels, versus 1.57 billion bushels last year. Add to this the 240 million bushels likely to be carried over this August, total supplies could reach almost 1.8 billion bushels.

Reports also indicate that soybean exports, which this year are expected to increase to 525 million bushels, will go even higher in 1974 - 75, reaching 575 million bushels. Domestic use will be up too. Overall soybean use next season could rise to about 1.5 billion bushels, leaving a carryover in August 1975 of about 300 million bushels.

Soybean farm prices averaged $5.75 per bushel during September - March, compared with $4.19 for this same period last year.

Soybean oil prices reached an alltime peak of 36.5 cents per pound in February, but declined to about 30 cents in March and have continued to fall in early April. Soybean meal prices in March averaged around $149 per ton, down sharply from the $412 of last June and the lowest since November 1972. Meal prices have declined further in early April. The decline reflects increased soybean meal production and a more ample supply in relation to demand, Reece said.
