Crash Kills Robesonian

At 1 a.m. Sunday Antioch Duffie Road seven miles south of Raeford was site of one of 20 North Carolina weekend traffic deaths. The fatality brought Hoke County's 1974 road death count to eight as compared with six during the same period in 1973.

Norman Lee Furrage Jr., 25, of Pembroke was pronounced dead at the scene after the vehicle he was driving spun around and bounced 31 feet after hitting a tree, says investigating officer Patrolman Ken Weston. Furrage was thrown from the vehicle.

"Damage and skid marks indicate the car was traveling at a high rate of speed," says the state trooper. The vehicle apparently ran off the road onto a shoulder, skidded 306 feet, right rear of car struck a bridge, vehicle swerved skidding 144 feet and driver's area struck the tree, reports the patrolman.

The impact almost severed the passenger area of the 1973 Chevrolet Monte Carlo and the car was a total loss estimated at $3,800, reports Weston. The body was taken to Crumpler's Funeral Home by the Hoke County Rescue squad Dr. Riley M. Jordan, county medical examiner said the victim was dead.
