Public Hearing

A public hearing on new social services legislation will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the courthouse.

Ben Niblock, county director of social services, said the hearing will deal with federal legislation known as Title XX.

The new law, which will go into effect later this year, will change funding and services in several programs, such as the Aid for Families with Dependent Children and aid for the aged and blind.

Niblock said he hoped the hearing is well attended, as there is some misunderstandings about the law.

"There is some idea that money will be available for building child care centers, halfway houses, receiving centers for wayward and such. But this money won't build the buildings although it might be used to rent existing buildings," Niblock said. "Anyway, during the first year at least, there won't be much money available for a small county like Hoke."

GRASSFIRE - Raeford firemen were busy on both sides of Prospect Street near the W.K. Morgan home when high winds fanned a grassfire, and these members had to call for another truck when they were unable to pump any water from the lone fire engine fighting the flames here.

Grass Fire Burns Acres

A grass fire spurred by strong winds quickly burned about twenty-five acres of land about 4 p.m. Tuesday on East Prospect Street.

Raeford Fire Department members were summoned to the home of W.K. Morgan where the fire is believed to have started near the vicinity of the house. It was not known if anyone was in the house at the time.

No injuries were reported. Winds, estimated by Fire Chief Crawford Thomas as gusting 35-40 mph, quickly spread the blaze across Prospect to the northeast, onto property owned by Younger Snead.

Firemen fighting the blaze in the fields were unsuccessful in getting any water from their hose, and another water truck was summoned to the scene.

Chief Thomas said later the equipment did not appear to be faulty, apparently the firemen were not "pushing the right lever," he said.

Seventeen firemen responded to the area, Thomas said, and it took about 30-40 minutes to bring the fire under control.

Thomas said no houses in the vicinity were in any danger because the high winds were blowing northeast.

Raeford police officers J. McNeill and Junior Ward assisted at the scene in directing traffic, but many drivers changed their minds and turned around when they saw the closeness of the flames to the roadway.

Thomas said the cause of the blaze has not been determined, but it may have started with a match or cigarette.

City Answer 'Inaccurate'

The city has filed inaccurate information in a reply to a lawsuit, Mrs. Agnes Campbell charged Tuesday.

"If they filed what the newspaper article said they did, then it was entirely different from what they told me they would do in August," she said. "If the city had said in August what they say now, there would have been no lawsuit."

Mrs. Campbell is suing the city for water service and a fire hydrant near her property.

In an affidavit filed in Superior Court clerk's office March 6, city attorney Palmer Wilcox stated that the city had on Aug. 19 offered to extend a two-inch water line to the property line of Mrs. Campbell using a more direct and less expensive route than the proposal of the plaintiff. The offer is still open, he said.

Wilcox said in an interview that the city has already acquired the necessary easements to run the line across property owned by Joe Upchurch to Mrs. Campbell's property line.

Mrs. Campbell said Tuesday that that was not the original offer made by the city in August. In a letter from city manager John Gaddy, Mrs. Campbell was told "We have contacted Mr. Joe and Larry Upchurch with the possibility of installing a larger (2") water line to serve Larry's residence; and they have agreed to permit you to tap on to this line to serve your residence."

"It will be your responsibility to pay a tap fee of $100 to the City of Raeford, and extend water line from near Larry's residence to your home and to acquire easement if necessary. The distance from Larry's will be approximately 500 feet as compared with approximately 1300 feet from St. Pauls Drive. I feel you should install at least a 3/4" line, which will supply ample water for a household."

Storm Victims Get Help

The county chapter of the American Red Cross is assisting seven families who were left homeless when their mobile homes were destroyed Monday.

Clyde Upchurch, Red Cross chairman, has authorized $50 lump sum payments to the James Graham family, Thomas Ray, the Lonnie McMillians, Julia Harris, Henry Dockery, and Harvey Lee Fairley, all of whom were living in the West Hoke area.

A seventh tornado victim, Shane Page, whose home was destroyed at the Old Trail Mobile Home Park, is also being assisted with a $50 payment.

Bill Niven, Civil Defense Coordinator, said efforts were being made to find temporary shelter for some of the families.

Sewing Workshop

A sewing workshop featuring tips for sewing on sheer fabrics and working with bias cuts will be held April 8 from 1-3 p.m. at the Robeson County Extension office in Lumberton.

Clothing specialists Harriet Tutterow and Judy Walker will teach.
