Jumpers Earn Honors

Jumpers from the Raeford Parachute Club took top honors at the Southeastern Conference championship meet held recently in Barnwell, S.C.

Nine local sports parachutists qualified in the meet to compete in national competition to be held in Tahlequah, Okla. in July. Winners there will make up the United States team for world championship competition next year in Rome.

Mark Limond, a staff member of Raeford Aviation based at the city airport, won best overall parachutist in the men's competition. Runner-up was Roy Hatch, of Rt. 1, Raeford, a Knit-Away employee.

In the women's division, Judy Patrick, a nurse at the VA Hospital who lives at Rt. 1, Raeford, took best overall jumper. Runner-up was Nancy Wrenn, a Ft. Bragg housewife who is a member of Raeford Parachute Club.

Five other local jumpers earned trips to the national meet. They are Bill Clendening, and Tom Kawlick, staff members at Raeford Aviation; Wayne George of Rt. 1, a Burlington employee; Rene O'Neill, of Rt. 1, who works at Knit-Away and Jack Wallace of Minnesota, who came to Raeford to train for the meets.

Saving is simple. Banks make it complicated.

The razzle-dazzle schemes most banks give you make saving harder. Not better. Because most people save for very basic reasons. To keep their money safe—and to earn the highest possible interest. Which is the way we approach it at Southern National. We ask you a few questions. Then we suggest a plan with the highest interest the law allows. It's the best you can do. And you'll walk away with peace of mind. Instead of a headache.
