'Curious George' Begins

Remember! Curious George story hour every Tuesday morning beginning July 1 at 10:00 A.M. Also grades two - six come and register to read. Ask for books on the special list for a reading certificate.

This time next week we will be in the Sandhill Regional Library Program. We are looking forward to this and will probably be making some changes in our overall system; we hope for better service to you. It will take time and effort on all our parts in the library and you our patrons. Work with us and be patient if some part of our system you have to get use to all over again.

As we read the paper and continue to see all the nice benefits toward the building of a new library it makes us proud to be of service to such an interesting community. We of course as well as all of you are really looking forward to seeing the first shovel of dirt lifted to begin a long-awaited project.

For those who need large print books of all kinds, we can get them for you from state library. Ask about these and we will show you the list that we have.

"Changing Children's Behavior" by John D. and Helen B. Krumboltz
If you know how you want your children to behave, this book will tell you how to accomplish it. Both desirable and undesirable behavior is learned. If a child can learn to lie, he can learn to tell the truth. If he can learn to fight, he can learn to cooperate. The key is in arranging the consequences for each type of behavior. "Changing Children's Behavior" describes the basic behavior modification principles and illustrates how to apply them.

Teachers Named

Four teachers at Hoke High were named outstanding secondary educators for 1975.

They are Emma Jean Mims, who teaches chemistry; Margaret H. Peden, home economics teacher; Mary Archie McNeill, choral director and Robert H. Gatlin, retired drafting teacher.

Biographies and records of achievements of each of the teachers will be published in an awards volume.

First Melons Are Reported

Ripe watermelons have been reported in the county by Willie McPhaul of the South Hoke area.

McPhaul, who stakes his claim to the first ripe melons in the county, on June 30. This is slightly later than other years, he said, when he has had ripe watermelons by June 27.

"But that's okay," McPhaul said. "Because most folks try to have ripe watermelons by the Fourth of July."
