

Scenes From Bicentennial Day

COUNCILMAN—Benny McLeod, city councilman, stepped up with a shovel at the groundbreaking to turn the beginning of the library as the crowd applauds.

Paul's Photography Studio
Photos by Paul Morgan

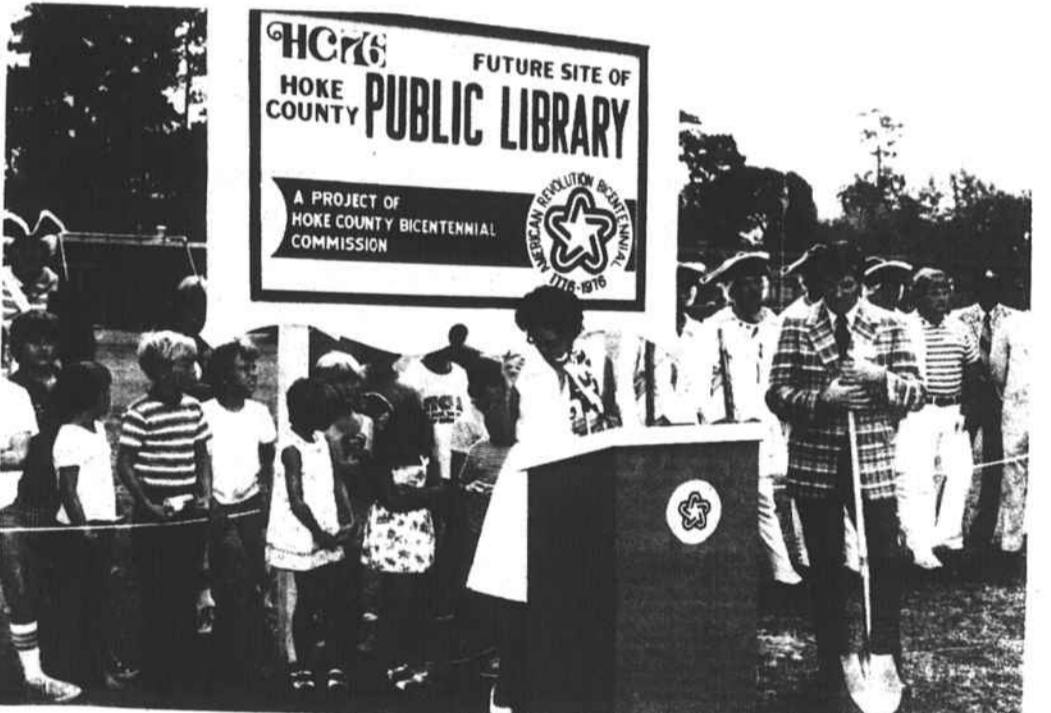

PINT SIZED HELPERS—With scaled down shovels, these youngsters helped break the ground for the library. Left to right are Bonita Doby, Mary Gwen Thomas, William Carter, Tom Coley, and Julie Cameron.

LIBRARIAN—A very dainty shovel of earth was turned over by librarian Helen Page, assisting in the groundbreaking for the library Friday.

"YOU'RE LEADING, AGAIN"—These two unidentified fellows got right into the spirit of things at the street dance and danced away.

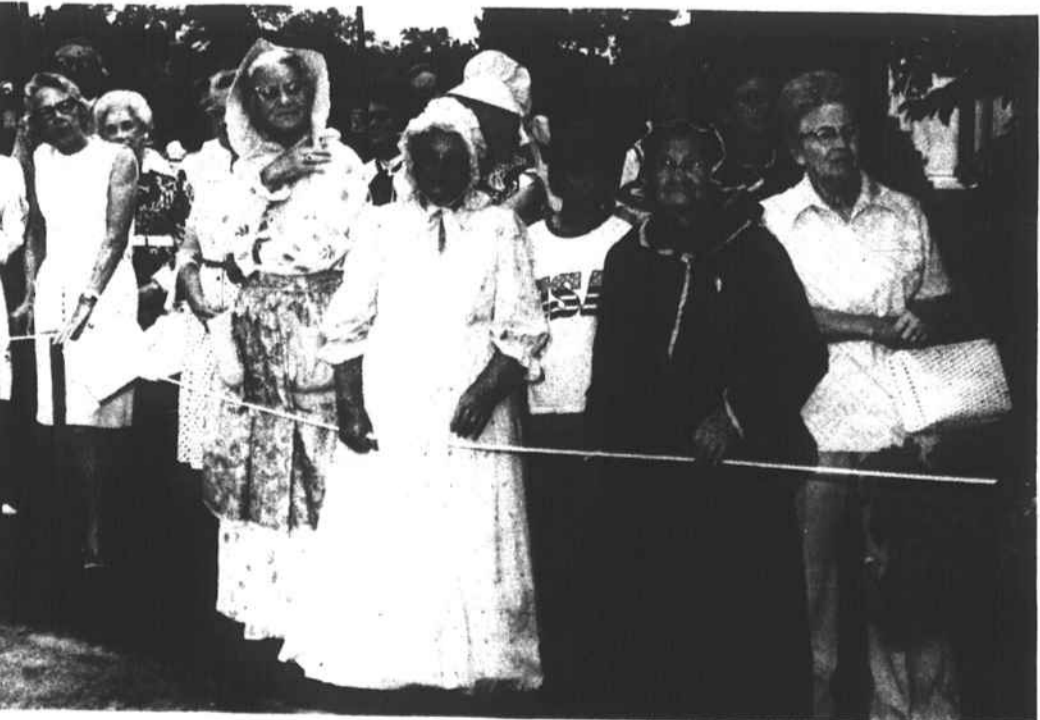

GROUND BREAKING—Mrs. J.L. McNeill delivered the remarks on behalf of the library board of trustees as master of ceremonies Dick Lovette stands by.

CALLER—Doug Edge (with microphone) called the dances as Ruth and Don Vinson (center) and Kay Waldrep and Mac McBryde (on right) fall into step.

STREET CROWD—Young and old alike turned out for the street dance on Stewart which capped Friday's Bicentennial festivities. On right are Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Pickler.

COLONIAL COSTUME—Many women turned up in the crowds dressed in old fashioned attire, as these three ladies shown here.

SQUARE DANCING—Members of The Swingers enjoy a lively number at the street dance Friday night. Clockwise from far left are Margaret Davis, Carolyn Kirby, Bruce Holland, Johnnie Hubbard, and Vernon Hubbard.