Anne McNeill

Dance Studio Opening

Miss Anne McNeill, of the Ann Clark Schools of Dance, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence McNeill of Raeford, will be offering classes in ballet, toe, tap, and jazz in Raeford starting this September.

Miss McNeill, in addition to studies in the Raeford-Fayetteville area, studied dance under Mavis Ray at East Carolina University in Greenville, where she received her degree in 1973. She has studied in New York City at Ballet Arts under the direction of Igor Youskevitch and Gloria Fokine; Luigis Jazz Center under the direction of Luigi; and at the International School under the direction of Alexandria Danilova and June Taylor.

While at East Carolina University, Miss McNeill appeared as "Snow White" in the Snow White Ballet; danced a major role in "Dames at Sea"; and performed in both the dance and drama department productions for several years. Before leaving East Carolina, she was offered a dance role in the outdoor drama production of "Lost Colony" at Manteo. Locally she completed a dance role in the five week run of Circa 75 production of "Oklahoma."

Miss McNeill, a native of Raeford, plans to teach dance in Raeford and with the Ann Clark Schools of Dance in the Fayetteville studios. She will teach classes during the school months and continue her dance studies in New York City in the summers.

Anyone interested in these dance classes may call 875-2630 in Raeford, or come by the Raeford Civic Center from 2 p.m. through 7 p.m. on Wednesday, September 3, to register.

In the Fayetteville area, in addition to teaching, Miss McNeill will be performing with the Dance Theatre of Fayetteville. She hopes that eventually some of her own proteges will be dancing major roles with the company.

At the Raeford studio, in addition to classes for children, there will be special classes for adults in all aspects of dance. This will be especially good for young mothers to get back into shape.
