County Planning Survey Done Under Grant

A land use survey made possible under a grant from the Department of Natural and Economic Resources will be done for Hoke County during the next 12 months to assist in long range planning for orderly growth.

James H. Dougherty, 25, who received his masters degree in city planning from Ohio State University in June, is in charge of the project.

Dougherty will be studying population, employment, industrial sites, and other statistical data for long-term recommendations on land use and development for the future.

The county contributed $3,200 in matching funds for the $4,800 grant.

Dougherty received his B.A. degree from Morehead State University in 1971. He has previously worked as a program and activities planner for a Columbus, Ohio day care center and as an examiner for the state auditor's office in Ohio.

He is an associate member of the American Institute of Planners.

C Of C Views Projects

Chamber of Commerce directors met Tuesday and were told 90 per cent of the Chamber membership has renewed, according to manager Julian H. (Buddy) Blue.

The board discussed plans for projects, including a comprehensive study of health care needs for the county and exploring the possibility of obtaining extended area telephone service.

The board agreed to sponsor a supper for members of the Fireman's Association in connection with Fire Prevention Week in October.

Blue said an industrial development sales team is also in the planning stages. The team would be trained by the Department of Commerce and Industry.

Plans for publication of a visitor's map to the city were also discussed.
