Hints for hay fever sufferers

If you're one of the 10 million Americans who annually face the ordeal of hay fever, the following hints should help you through a trouble-free Fall.

1 - See a physician. He can prescribe medication to relieve many of your symptoms. 2 - Don't drink alcohol - it tends to dilate blood vessels, as pollens do. 3 - Avoid emotional upsets, over-exertion, drastic change in temperature, insecticides, and powdered soaps.

4 - Don't smoke, cut flowers, paint, or go for a ride in the country. 5 - Invest in one of the new highly efficient electronic air cleaners. Dealers are located in most larger towns.

Safety First - If you see more than one physician, be sure each knows about all medicines you're taking.

Enrollment Freeze, Appalachian State

Appalachian State University will not admit new students for its spring semester due to a capacity enrollment this fall, according to C.H. Gilstrap, director of admissions at Appalachian.

Gilstrap said that Appalachian would continue to receive and admit for the spring semester applications from graduate students, transfers completing college parallel programs at community or junior colleges, and previously enrolled ASU students who apply for readmission.

Gilstrap said that the university also would honor commitments to some 50 entering freshmen and transfers who applications are pending.

"We are over enrolled, our faculty is overloaded, and we are faced with budget limitations in our state funding," Gilstrap said.

Appalachian is receiving state funds based on a full time enrollment of 7,250 students. Preliminary full time enrollment for the fall semester is expected to be about 7,900 and the preliminary resident enrollment is 8,494.
