EDITOR'S NOTE: This week's feature was contributed by 4-H leaders and members in celebration of National 4-H Week.

During the week of October 5 - 11, many 4-Hers in the United States, along with members in Hoke County, are celebrating National 4-H Week. This year's theme is, "Spirit of Tomorrow."

In commemorating our nation's Bicentennial, 4-H prepares for tomorrow's horizons... horizons which call for determination and challenge home from a strong national heritage. The Bicentennial era is an appropriate time to pause and reflect on this strong heritage and the accomplishments of the 4-H movement whose embryo was forming during the nation's centennial years and whose philosophy has reached out to embrace the young people and volunteer adults around the world in spirit of working together to "Learn by doing."

As the 4-H program continues to progress, it will be meeting the challenges of tomorrow with the same enterprising spirit that has built the 4-H program to its present level of success... currently fulfilling the needs and aspirations of 7.2 million youth in citizenship, leadership and community service activities. Tomorrow's goals - both personal goals of character building, knowledge seeking and skill development... and altruistic human goals of love, understanding and peace - can be the goals of all 4-Hers individually and collectively.

"4-H '76... Spirit of Tomorrow" encourages 4-Hers to set high standards and to establish realistic, personal goals as they prepare to assume the responsibilities of adulthood. Youth are challenged to vigorously tackle problems and concerns, to build a better tomorrow, by exercising the same spirit that 4-H has displayed so abundantly throughout its history.

This week is not only a celebration for 4-Hers but also a time when we like to express our thanks to adults for their leadership and volunteer services. There are numerous youths who cannot participate in 4-H due to the lack of adult supervision. Any adult who wishes to give their services to youth in the community, or any youth from 9 - 19 who wishes to join a 4-H club in the county or to have a new one started, please contact the Hoke County Extension Service.

4-H Workshop

Every summer, the 4-H Extension Service puts on summer workshops for the young people of Hoke

Spotlight On Nat'l 4-H Week

County. The workshops, organized by 4-H County leaders and teen leaders are to help young people who take part in the workshops. Some of the workshops are crafts, sewing, archery, BB gun target shooting, bicycle safety and swimming.

In August there was an archery and BB gun contest at the Armory. The contestants had practice all day the first day, and the second day was the day of the contest and prizes were given. Refreshments were also served.

Out Of State Trip

Being an out-of-state delegate is a real privilege to anyone who gets an opportunity to attend. An out-of-state delegate is a 4-H'er who visits another state during their state meeting or conference. Most of these meetings last from three to four days during the summer. At these meetings 4-Hers from all over the state meet, at a college usually, and have state demonstrations recognize state project book winners, have judging contests, and many other statewide activities.

This past summer I was a delegate to Maryland. I stated the week-end with the boy delegate to North Carolina. He was my host for the week in Maryland. I felt this an extra opportunity by staying the week-end with him, because I got to know an entire family.

The following Monday we went to the conference which lasted until Friday. At the conference we had classes in different subjects like public speaking, tennis, self-defense and beach combing. We had swimming and other recreation each evening and an assembly each night. Contests were held in public speaking and interviews for trips out-of-state.

I had a great time the entire week and met a lot of new friends. I also learned a lot about the 4-H program in Maryland and about their activities, many of which I hope I can bring to North Carolina and our county. I can truly say it was one of the best trips I have ever experienced.

State Congress

During the week of July 21 - 25, a group composed of six 4-Hers' and one agent attended North Carolina State 4-H Congress on the campus of North Carolina State University in Raleigh. We had a really terrific time, but we also gained valuable knowledge. One of the nicest parts of 4-H is the friends you can make. At the district level, I had many friends, but not at the state level, so this was a real challenge. At Congress, I learned much about 4-H that I had not known before. I learned who my state officers were and what they looked like. It was really amazing to see how they conducted the meetings. I know it took months of work to plan and prepare Congress.

One of the nice facets of Congress was that you became close friends with the people who came from your county. The members of our group were Linda Croft, Bill Barnwell, Jimmy Turner, Beth Cameron, Robert Attaway and myself. Our county was host to John Schmidt, and out of state delegate from Maryland, therefore John joined us most of the time. When we returned home, we all took a part of each other with us.

We grew closer to the people from our district. It was nice to have someone that you knew there, as our friends from the Southcentral District looked pretty good. We all supported Linda Peterson and Mary Landen, who were from area district, as they ran for state office.

At Congress, we had a class on cumulative records, rap sessions with out-of-state delegates, demonstrations and a variety of other classes and workshops. Every night was exciting. We went out to eat and then we went to Scott's Pavilion for the evening program. Every night the program was different. We had a Bicentennial dance, a fashion show, a watermelon feast, a health pageant, election speeches, lecturers and assorted skits.

The saddest part of the whole week was going home. We had to say good-bye to our friends and pack up our belongings, but one thought remained firm in our minds. We were coming back next year!

Citizenship

Citizenship Shortcourse is a learning and growing experience that develops one's character as well as one's knowledge of government.

The major aspect, of course, was citizenship. A citizen is a person who belongs to a state, nation, etc., who has a certain obligation to do what is best for it. As 4-Hers we learned of our duties as citizens and what was expected from us as active citizens.

The next aspect was our government. We had a chance to visit our Congressmen and representatives along with other members of the administration. We were invited in to look around freely and to ask as many questions as we wished. This gave us a chance to hear and see what was going on and what our officials were doing to correct or to solve certain issues. The cordial way we were invited in and the patience each person showed us impressed upon us how efficiently our government is run and how each person has his own job to do in solving the problems which may arise.

Next, maybe not the most educational but definitely the most fun, was meeting the other people. There were ten different states staying at the National 4-H Center in Washington, the 4-Hers were from all over the states. In putting together all these people who were strangers, it more or less forced you to meet people, which is an important part of being a citizen - meeting and getting along with people.

Citizenship shortcourse is definitely a trip that should be taken by every 4-H'er. The knowledge and improvement of your own character which you gain makes an unforgettable week.

Leader Speaks

As the first week in October approaches and I realize that National 4-H week is here, I think back to before I made the decision to become a 4-H Club leader. I found I had a little free time and my great love for young people helped me to decide. Of course the question uppermost in my mind was "Can I do it?" I'm not very qualified. Well the answer was, I believe I can, and I'm more than willing to learn, so with the help of our Hoke County agents, myself and eight children, started the Antioch Eager Beavers 4-H Club. I found that I had many parents that I could depend on for help and I'm very proud to say that our club in three months now our club in three months now numbers 24 children or young people aged nine to sixteen years.

We meet for our regular meetings once each month. We also plan group classes which range from sewing to gun safety, cooking, canning and preserving, wood working and nature hikes to a planned Halloween party. We have had 100 percent cooperation and attendance. We have learned if there is something offered to these young people they eagerly accept and participate.

We have so many plans for the future - civic, educational and fun.

As a leader of a 4-H group I want these young people to know the wonderful opportunities offered by 4-H, and work and take advantage of these opportunities.

My greatest hope is to be of some help in helping our future citizens to know how to take their place in the future and whatever they endeavor to do, to do it well.

I want these children to know and realize you get out of life what you are willing to put into it. To give of themselves freely and to be happy.

Finally I'd like to say that if any parent has any free time at all, and if you want a future generation to be proud of, give your time to the young people. They will love and accept you for what you do for them, not your knowledge. Give and you will receive just a bit of what I have found with this group.
