Send Faulty Decals Back-Commissioner

Edward L. Powell, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, announced that there have been problems with the new 1976 validation stickers for renewal of automobile license plates. Powell said complaints coming to his attention have revealed instances where the stickers have torn and citizens are unable to use them.

Powell urged all citizens who have received faulty stickers to return to them to their local license plate agent or to the Division of Motor Vehicles Headquarters in Raleigh and he assured them that new stickers would be issued to them at no cost. Powell encouraged motorists to inspect the stickers before applying them to determine if they are damaged.

Powell said "We don't know the extent of the numbers of damaged stickers, but I have instructed the Registration Officials to begin an immediate investigation into this matter."
