Beards May Be Law

Every male in Hoke County will be sporting a beard by July 4, if the wishes of the Hoke County Bicentennial Commission become a reality.

The commission is enthusiastic about asking the Hoke County Commissioners to pass an "official" ordinance that would require males in the county to grow a beard in accordance with the celebration of our nation's Bicentennial.

The commission also hopes to get the Raeford City Council to pass a similar ordinance.

Hoke Senior At LASER

Hoke High senior Mike Prevatte is attending LASER (Legislative Affairs, Study, Explore and Report) in Raleigh this week representing the youth from the Rockingham district Methodist churches.

Prevatte, who was elected to the post at the youth chapter of the annual conference session in Fayetteville last summer, was placed on the tax reform study team.

He is active in the St. Pauls United Methodist Church where he sings in the youth choir and the school chorus.

He plans to attend East Carolina University in the fall.

Colonial Chronicle Is Library Gift

A copy of "Women's Life and Work in the Southern Colonies" has been presented to the Hoke County Library by Mrs. Chauncey DePew Linney of Statesville, retiring president of the North Carolina Chapter, Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century.

Mrs. Linney was presented the book in appreciation for her service to the society and she in turn presented it to Mrs. Laurie McEachern, the society's recording secretary, for use in Hoke County's new Bicentennial Library.

Mrs. Chauncey D. Linney

Julia Cherry Spruill, author of the book, began a study of the changing status of women in the South, and her research led to publication of the book by the University of North Carolina Press in 1938. It was reissued by Russell and Russel of Athenaeum Publishers in 1969.

A review in the New York Herald Tribune at the time of publication reads, in part, "Here is the first scholarly and comprehensive study of the daily life of the women of the Southern English colonies, their part in establishing them, their homes and household occupations, their education, social life, participation in public affairs, their theoretical and actual status as fixed by law and custom. Out of a vast array of public documents, county records, vestry books, court minutes, contemporary newspapers, journals, letters, inventories, etc. the author has skillfully woven together a mass of significant, interesting, and amusing details and built up a well constructed picture."

Mrs. Linney is a member of the Iredell County Bicentennial Commission and was instrumental in establishment of the Iredell County Vocational Workshop, the Horizons project of the commission. She has long been active in civic, social, and historical societies. She is an elder in the Presbyterian Church, and was one of the organizers of the Alexander County hospital.

Rescue Squad At Seminar

Four members of the Hoke County Rescue Squad attended a six hour seminar at Sandhills Community College last week.

The course on Emergency Respiratory Care was sponsored by the Mid-State Lung Association. Instructors were Dr. Archie McKenzie and Dr. Donald Wallace.

Area emergency medical technicians were given information to aid them in transporting acute respiratory patients.

Attending from the local squad were Eric Allen, Earl Conoly, Steve Wimberley and Jim Wade.
