WORTHY MATRON, WORTHY PATRON - Blanche Hedgpeth and Woodrow Hayes were installed Saturday, March 27, Raeford Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

NEW CORPS OF OFFICERS - Raeford Chapter No. 226, Order of the Eastern Star.

Eastern Star Installs Officers

The open installation of officers of Raeford Chapter No. 226, Order of the Eastern Star was held Saturday, March 27, at 8 P.M.

Mrs. Kathryn McRacken of Red Springs, Past Grand Matron, was introduced as the installing officer. Her assistants were Frances Brown, marshal; Bill Potter, chaplain and Ramona Hedgpeth, organist. Soloist was Terry Taylor. Rev. Jack Mansfield gave the dedicatory prayer.

Officers installed were Blanche Hedgpeth, worthy matron; Woodrow Hayes, worthy patron; Betty Gill, associate matron; Bill Gill, associate patron; Lillian Wood, secretary; Isabel Smith, treasurer; Justine Plummer, conductress; Linda Fisher, associate conductress; Mary Smith, chaplain; Glenn Wood, marshal; Isabel Maxwell, organist; Thelma McPhaul, Adah; Dianne Hedgpeth, Ruth; Nell Averitte, Esther; Ethel Hayes, Martha; Barbara Mewherter, Electa; Lona Graham, Warder and Maggie Jane McBryde, Sentinel.

For this annual event the Masonic Temple was decorated in shades of yellow and green with yellow roses and fern, the Worthy Matron's flowers for the year. Her emblems, the open Holy Bible and the lamp were prominently displayed. All of the officers installed wore yellow rose corsages or boutinieres, a gift from the new Matron, Blanche Hedgpeth.

Mrs. Hedgpeth was presented with a white Bible by her son, Vardell Hedgpeth, Jr. of Raeford; her own personal gavel by her son, Jimmy Hedgpeth of Laurinburg; an armload of yellow roses by Harriett Logsdon, Fayetteville and a decoupage purse from Betty and Bill Gill. Past matron's pin was presented to the out-going matron, Frances Ward Green, by her mother, Hazel Green. The past matron's gift was presented to Hinton McPhaul by his wife, Thelma.

Members and guests from Red Springs, Dublin, Lumberton, Fairmont, Wade, Spring Lake, Laurinburg, Rockingham, Fayetteville, Williamsburg, Virginia, Hartsville, South Carolina and Great Bend and Overland Park, Kansas were served refreshments in the dining room from a table draped in yellow satin and net decorated with an arrangement of yellow roses, fern and candelabra. Justine Plummer and Linda Fisher poured punch. Ruby Duncan, refreshment committee chairman, presided at the reception assisted by Kate Potter, Isabel Smith, Betty Gill and Mary Smith.

Prior to the installation ceremony, guests were registered by Vicki Hedgpeth, granddaughter of the worthy matron, and Cindy Gill, Mandy and Kelly Hedgpeth, also granddaughters of the matron, dispensed the programs. Decorations were under the supervision of Steve Hedgpeth and Harriett Logsdon.

New Display In Museum

A new collection of Indian artifacts from Randolph County is now being prepared for exhibition at the Indian Museum of the Carolinas in Laurinburg. This collection is available through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Moody Dougan of Asheboro.

One of the most interesting items in the collection is an 18 - inch yellow stone, on which are carved lines and letter - like symbols. These carvings may be a map, a place marker, or a translation of the surveying marks cut into the other side of the stone.

The boxes of projectile points, knives, hoes, axes and grinding stones contain tools in all stages of completion. Indian paint pots and pottery are well represented also.

The Indian Museum of the Carolinas is open from 9 - 12 A.M. on Tuesday mornings and from 1 - 5 P.M. Tuesday through Sunday. There is no admission charge.
