Some of the things you can look for around your farm or home are: Barley dwarf mosaic virus disease is now showing up on barley, oats and wheat. Powdery mildew is also beginning to appear. There is no control for these diseases at this time. Cedar apple rust is sporulating on the galls of cedar trees and will soon show up on the leaves and fruits of apples and crabapples.

Control is by the use of ferbam. Needle cast is showing up on pines. The fungus affects older needles and they will turn brown and drop in the next few weeks.

Azalea petal blight has had a favorable period for growing. The entire petal will become mushy.

Many other things will be changing in your yard so be on the lookout for the ones that destroy plants.

Operating expenses and depreciation on 40 N.C. tobacco farms averaged 74 cents per pound in 1975. These costs do not include labor and management performed by the grower or any charges for his own quota, land or interest on his own investments. The records show that the average price received was 97 cents and that leaves a margin of less than 23 cents per pound in 1975. This compares with 32 cents per pound in 1974. These records may not be representative of all tobacco farms but it gives you some idea to compare your farm with.

Some information was gathered on the mechanical tobacco stripper this past year. The dominant use of the new harvester was to strip the remaining leaves, after some priming had been done by other methods. An average of 65 per cent of the leaves were stripped in the last over harvest. The leaf on a once-over basis sold on the average at 4 cents per pound below the market average. Most growers used production practices to lengthen the harvest season.

Farmers that wish to be certified to apply restricted use pesticides on their farms can take the four hour training course on April 14 and 15 at the county agents' office on S. Magnolia St. Starting time will be at 7:30 P.M. each night. The course will consist of a series of slide sets, a review set and some questions to be discussed. Any farmer over 16 years of age can take the course, but must attend the entire four hour course.

About 30 people can be accommodated the first session and you should call 875-3461 to get on the list. Other sessions will be held throughout the year and all farmers must be certified by Oct. 1977.

NOTICE OF SALE OF TAX LIENS ON REAL PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 105-369 of the General Statutes of North Carolina and pursuant to an order of the City Council of the City of Raeford, dated April 5th, 1976, I will offer for sale and will sell at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder at the City Hall in Raeford, North Carolina, at 12 o'clock noon on May 10th, 1976, liens upon the real estate described below for the non-payment of taxes owing for the year 1975. The amount advertised will be increased by interest and costs and the omission of interest and costs from the amount advertised will not constitute a waiver of the taxing unit's claim for those items. No bid will be received unless it is at least equal to the principal amount of the taxes advertised plus interest and costs accrued thereon at the date of sale. The real estate that is subject to the lien, the name of the person to whom the property is listed for taxes, and the principal amount of the taxes are set out below. Reference is made to the records in the office of the register of deeds of this county and in the office of the tax supervisor of this county for a more particular description of the real estate.

CASSEROLE COSTS

Many people believe that you save money when you serve a casserole instead of meat. Sometimes this is true—sometimes not.

If you add up the cost of making some casseroles you may find they are more expensive than a cut of meat. Take for example the casseroles that include condensed soups, sour cream or exotic ingredients, such as water chestnuts, mushrooms, nuts, mandarin oranges or special cheeses. All these good things help make a casserole taste better, but they also take it out of the low-price category.

On the other hand, you can really save on food costs when you expand protein foods, such as meat, poultry and fish—with lower-cost noodles, spaghetti, rice or beans.

How can you tell whether or not the casserole you plan to make is really an economy? To make cost comparisons, add up the cost of every one of the ingredients. Then divide your total by the number of servings you get from the dish. Anything under twenty cents a serving can be considered economical.

But if the price goes much beyond twenty cents a serving, you may find some meats would cost you less—without the extra ingredients and the extra work that goes into making an exotic casserole.
