

It is said that we are living in an age of freedom. As never before, people are free to eat and drink what they please, say and do whatever they want, and take their pleasure wherever they can find it. Of course, there are understand-able limit to that freedom while able limits to that freedom, yet it is still true that this is probably one of the least restrictive ages man has ever known.

To some degree it was necessary that man should experience this new freedom. Past societies had often gone to the opposite extreme, binding human behaviour with restrictions that were both delimit-ing and absurd. Life became a system of "Thou shalt nots," and it was assumed that if anything was enjoyable, it "probably was wrong!"

Today we find that society is swinging to the other extreme. In the past there were too many restrictions and rules, but today we often find that we need more, not less, and there is a deep desire to temper the new "freedom" of man with a sense of self - discipline and responsibility. The issue is not a matter of whether we shall be free or not, for often new "freedom" is a bogus, phony freedom. It is the kind of freedom that leads us to boast: "I can do anything I want to do." Yet this is often an empty, deceptive boast that may mean only that we have freely chosen to be dominated by some hunger, need, or drive, We may say, for example, that we are free to eat all that we want to eat. With no restrictions on what eat. With no restrictions on what we may eat, it does seem that we are free to do as we please. Yet, in reality, our "freedom" to eat all we want may degenerate into another kind of bondage. After awhile, we may no longer be able to eat just what we know is good for us, but, enslaved by our own voracious appetite, we may find that we are compelled to eat far more than we want or need. want or need.

This same principle applies to all I his same principle applies to all our appetites: physical, emotional and spiritual. Given free reign without any restraints at all, any of these appetites may destroy our "freedom" by ruling us, taking our lives out of the jurisdiction of our lives out of the jurisdiction of our a huge meal, we ask ourselves: "Why did I allow myself to eat so much and become so miserable?"

Paul caught this distinction and in I Corinthians 6 he lays it out for us: "All things are lawful for me, but not all things are helpful." To be really free is to have the power to do for ourselves what we know to be right and helpful to both us and others. Once again Paul same others. Once again, Paul says: 'All things are lawful for me,' but I will not be enslaved by anything.'' (6:12).

Any time we are "enslaved" by anything, we are not truly free.

Store Settles Tax Dispute

Leon Levine, president of Family Dollar Stores, Inc. (AMEX symbol FDO), announced last week the resolution of litigation in the United States Tax Court concerning the Company's federal income tax liabilities for its taxable years August 31, 1967 through August 31, 1971.

As previously announced by the Company, the Internal Revenue Service had proposed the dis-allowance of multiple surtax exemptions for each of the above mentioned years or alternatively. exemptions for each of the above mentioned years or, alternatively, an inter - corporate reallocation of income with approximately the same resulting deficiencies. The proposed tax deficiencies, exclusive of interest totaled approximately $855,000.

Pursuant to a settlement agreement with the Service, the Com-pany has agreed to pay income tax deficiencies arising from these issues for the 1967 through 1971 years of approximately $85,000, plus interest estimated to be $17,000 (net of applicable income tax benefit). Thus, the Company will be required to pay only about ten percent of the aggregate deficiencies originally proposed by the Service for these years. Also as previously stated, a proposed disallowance of multiple proposed disallowance of multiple surtax exemptions or, alternatively, an intercorporate reallocation of income for the Company's taxable years 1972 through 1974, if similar to that originally proposed by the Service for the 1967 - 1971 years, would result in aggregate income would result in aggregate income tax deficiencies, exclusive of interest, of approximately $508,000 for 1972 through 1974. In light of for 19/2 through 1974. In light of the settlement of these issues for the Company's taxable years 1967 through 1971, the Company under-stands that the Service is now reconsidering these issues as they pertain to the Company's taxable years 1972 through 1974, and the Company is hopeful that an ap-proximate similar final settlement will be reached on these issues is will be reached on these issues in the near future. Such issues should not be raised by the Service in the future, due to the completion of the phase - out of the multiple surtax exemption.
