Grants-In Aid, $3,172,000 In Hoke

To what extent has Hoke County been sharing in the billions of dollars of Federal funds that are distributed annually by the government through grants-in-aid?

Of the $48.2 billion handed out by Washington in the past fiscal year, including $6.1 billion in revenue sharing grants, how much reached the local area?

On the basis of Treasury Department figures and a state-by-state analysis of them made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit organization that keeps track of government taxation and spending, Hoke County received a relatively large share.

An estimated $3,172,000 was earmarked for local purposes during the year under a variety of aid programs.

Throughout the State of North Carolina as a whole, the grants totaled $1,048,000,000, the Tax Foundation reports.

They were awarded for such needs as education, welfare, health, job training, urban renewal, food stamps, road construction and the like.

The amounts, it is explained, represent only grants-in-aid—and revenue sharing and do not include general Federal expenditures in local areas for goods and services.

Also considered in the study is how much these benefits cost the communities that receive them. They are paid for, in whole or in part, by the portion of their income and excise taxes that goes into the aid programs.

Hoke County's contribution to them in the past year was approximately $3,045,000, according to a breakdown of the Tax Foundation's figures. The statewide total amounted to $1,003,000,000. These costs are exclusive of matching funds.

In 20 of the states the contributions exceeded the aid that was received. Two states broke even. The others ended up ahead of the game.

No attempt is made to balance the grants and the costs.

Court Costs Rise July 1

To bring court costs paid by losing parties more in line with the expense of running the North Carolina court system, the General Assembly recently increased the rates, effective July 1.

This means that people whose court cases are handled after July 1 will pay an additional $2 in costs in the District Court criminal division bringing the charge to $27. Superior Court criminal costs will rise from the present $40 to $48. Civil costs will rise also, from $16 to $24 on the District Court level, and from $26 to $34 in Superior Court civil cases.

"The general public will be most concerned about the increase in District Court traffic cases from $25 to $27," said Bert Montague, Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts.

"Anyone who has been cited for a traffic offense and intends to waive his appearance by paying costs must do so on or before June 30 to get advantage of the current lower rates," Montague said. "Whether the payment is mailed in or hand-delivered, it must get to the clerk's office before July 1 to qualify for the present $25 rate."

Anyone who delivers a waiver to the court on or after July 1 and includes payment at the old rate will be asked for additional money. For those defendants cited now who appear for trial in July or later, their cost of court will be determined as of their trial date. For instance, a person who was cited June 1 and appears in court July 7 would pay costs of $27, which will be the rate in effect on the trial date.

To assist the public in coping with the change in rates, law enforcement officers are being requested to jot the change in court costs on the back of the citations they hand out, until new citation books can be printed.

One of the reasons for the rise in court costs is the enormous increase in paperwork in court clerks' offices, brought about by the revised Code of Criminal Procesure. To handle the paperwork, the General Assembly approved the hiring of 155 additional employees for clerks' offices across the state.

How to fight the high cost of keeping cool.

Most people seem to think a comfortable home means an uncomfortable energy bill. But, when you follow these tips, it doesn't really have to be that way.

1 Set your thermostat at the highest possible setting that's comfortable for you. A setting of 78° can save you about 20% over a setting of 72°.

2 A hot attic will cause your air conditioner to work harder. Be sure that your attic is ventilated and insulated properly.

A power ventilator can mean a 16% savings every year in cooling costs. A wind-driven ventilator can save 10%. Insulation should be at least 6" thick (R-19) on the attic floor.

3 Check the insulation and weather stripping around your home. They can make a big difference in your cooling (and heating) costs.

4 Dirty filters in a cooling system cost money. They can easily add as much as 20% to your cooling costs.

So clean the dirty ones, and replace the worn-out ones. It's important to check them at least once a month.

5 The less heat entering your home, the cooler it stays. Storm windows can save 10% on your cooling bill. If you add storm doors, the savings goes to 12%.

In rooms that are exposed to direct sunlight, keep your curtains and draperies closed.

6 Don't buy the wrong air conditioner for your home. Ask your dealer to help you with the "EER" (Energy Efficiency Rating).

7 Get our free 24-page booklet, "How to Save on Your Electric Bill," and a list of other available literature, at any CP&L office.
