

Civic Leaders Invited To Development Talk

Over fifty civic leaders have been invited by the Chamber of Commerce for a meeting Dec. 7 on industrial development opportunities to be conducted by the Chamber's industrial development team.

Chamber president Gib Bernhardt said the purpose of the meeting is to get opinions from the general community on ways to attract new industry to the county.

"Industrial development within a community is an area that needs the understanding, cooperation and support of all factions of that community," Bernhardt said. "We want to get maximum input from everyone concerned with this very important job".

Carson Davis Jr., chairman of the industrial development team, will review that group's efforts to the community leaders and direct a general discussion of future plans.

Mayor John K. McNeill Jr. and Ralph G. Barnhart, chairman of the board of county commissioners, are expected to attend, along with Pam Cooper, industrial development consultant for the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

Tuesday, Dec. 7 -- Southcentral District Extension Homemakers Leadership Training Workshop will be held in Southern Pines.

Today's families struggling to weather the economic storms sometimes feel like they are sailing against the wind. Americans will continue to have this feeling as long as they demand a high standard of living. There must be changes in life styles and we must learn to live with less. We must get use to a lower standard of living and we must dedicate ourselves to recycling, greater use of public transportation, reduced travel, smaller houses and cars, greater home production and conservation of food and household goods, more entertaining ourselves with crafts and games at home rather than movies or expensive televisions and stereo systems. We can be happy with less as long as we feel others are also doing without. What human beings want most is a sense of purpose and a sense of equity.

Seniors' Club Meets Dec. 7

The Raeford Senior Citizens Friendship Club will have a covered dish luncheon Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 12:30 p.m. in the Raeford Methodist Church.

Members are asked to bring a gift to exchange. Those who promised items for the Music Boosters Club sale are also reminded to bring those items to the luncheon.

Weekly HEALTH TIP

M. Wood

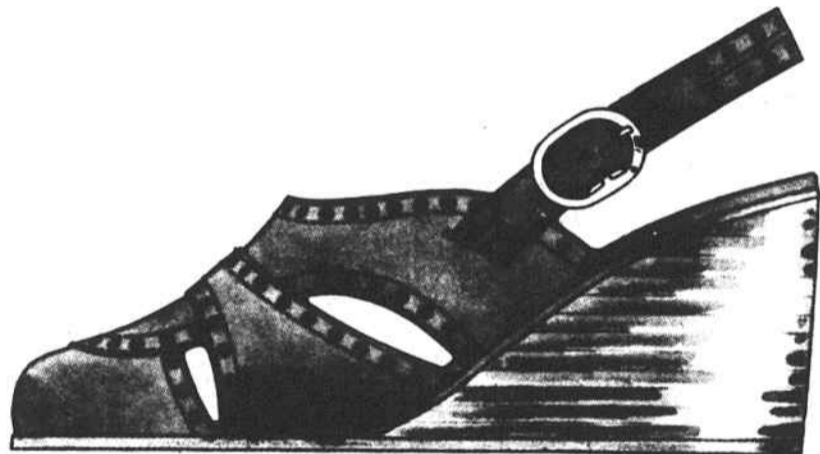

W. Coley

Constipated? Take one tablespoon of unprocessed bran daily in milk, water, fruit juice, suggests Surgeon Captain Cleave of the Royal Navy. Food fiber, such as bran, is the best and most natural way to prevent and cure constipation. He states, "Patients with diverticulitis and subacute or chronic ulcerative colitis thrive on it". A teaspoon of bran and a teaspoon of wheat germ is also excellent - it restores to the diet what the miller has taken out.
