The Hoke County Library Staff wishes all its patrons a very Happy New Year!

Everything seems to be back on schedule after the holidays. Our story hours have begun a new year with an additional one on Wednesday mornings. We are now going out to the kindergartens in the county. This past week Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. Cameron visited Scurlock School. We will be at West Hoke school each Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock; we have the Mothers' Story Hour to which we invite all the children whose mothers stay at home.

The number one book on the best seller list is "ROOTS". It has been made into a series of TV programs which will soon be on the TV. "ROOTS" is a saga of an American family written by Alex Haley. Haley begins his book in Gambia, West Africa, in 1750 with the birth of one of his ancestors. He traces the history of his family as they come over to America on the slave ship until the present generation. "ROOTS" is a study of how each generation helps to doom or helps to liberate the coming one.

Color Guard Disbands

Ft. Bragg's Bicentennial color guard was disbanded recently after more than 250 performances during its 18-month existence.

Each of the eight members of the color guard, both alternates and the noncommissioned officer in charge, received Gunfighter Certificates last month from Lt. Gen. Henry E. Emerson, XVIII Airborne Corps and Ft. Bragg commander. The general praised the color guard for "consistent professionalism and excellence in representing...Ft. Bragg in more than 250 Army and civilian communities."

Between June 1975 and December 1976 the color guard performed in parades, ceremonies and exhibits before audiences of 500 to 75,000 people, after its debut on the Army's 200th birthday June 14, 1975.

Major performances include: opening day ceremonies for the Miami Dolphins' 1975 football season, 4th of July ceremonies at Hope Mills last year, the three-day Shad Festival in Grifton last April (where they received the best Bicentennial entry trophy), and King's Mountain Day activities at King's Mountain, October 1975.

During its year and a half existence the color guard performed ten different routines requiring four to nine people. At times the color guard split into two four-man groups to cover two commitments simultaneously.

Members of the color guard had also received Army Commendation Medals in July for their efforts during the Bicentennial.

PLAYTIME -- These two frisky pups didn't think it was too cold for a romp Tuesday and couldn't understand where their human playmates had gone. Dog play is fine, they agreed, but it can't beat playing with people.
