FIREPLACE -- The Earl N. Fowler family on Harris Ave. fights the high cost of fuel with two woodburning fireplaces in their home. Fowler explained that the large fireplace in the family room is designed so that cool air is taken in, heated and circulated in back of the warm bricks.

4-H Corner By Freddie O'Neal

The Hoke County 4-H'ers gathered on Wednesday, Jan. 26 for the annual achievement night, held at the Raeford Elementary School. Former County Council president, Jimmy Turner, welcomed everyone to the big event, after which the pledge of allegiance and 4-H pledge was led by Sharon McNeill.

A representative of each club told of what their club had achieved during the past year. The speakers were: Shelia Brown of the Antioch Eager Beavers; Ernest Jacobs, Hillcrest 4-H Club; Angela Strother, Quewhiffle 4-H Club; Patricia Winchester of Hoke Juniors; Lena Leak of Scurlock; Ann Furr, Senior Teen 4-H Club; and Ellen Maxwell of the Stonewall 4-H Club.

Willie Featherstone, Assistant County Extension Agent, presented the special awards. The Outstanding Junior 4-H'ers were Kevin Mays and Angela Strother. They each received a $25 scholarship toward 4-H camp. The outstanding Senior 4-H'ers were Jimmy Turner and Tracy Pratt. They each received a $25 scholarship toward 4-H State Congress.

Wendell Young, County Extension Chairman, presented health awards. The county Junior Health winners were David Lupo and Carla Myers. They each received a trophy, pin, blue ribbon and certificate, plus a $20 scholarship toward 4-H Camp.

Anna Peele pinned the outgoing County Council Officers: President -- Jimmy Turner, Vice-president -- Gary Hendrix, Secretary-Treasurer -- Debbie McNeill.

O'Neal concluded the program by telling the 4-H'ers that participated in projects this year were all winners and what they had learned could not be taken away.

Unreclaimed coal-stripped land in the United States occupies an area larger than Rhode Island. Each day more than 400,000 pounds of sulfuric acid leaches into streams from strip mines, reports the National Geographic Society.

Christmas Seal Campaign

Hoke County's 1976 Christmas Seal Campaign has netted $1,247.26, which is $155.74 less than the previous year's total, according to Ralph Huff, Honorary Christmas Seal Chairman.

Huff expressed appreciation for the support given by local residents and reminded those who have not yet made their contribution that it is not too late. "I hope that Hoke County people will not forget to make their contribution for this worthy cause. Hopefully, we can equal or even exceed last year's total," he said.

Seventy per cent of all funds collected remain in the local area to be used in the program of work conducted by the Mid-State Lung Association to be used with patient service programs, community service projects, public health education, medical research and specialized training for medical and paramedical personnel who administer to lung disease patients.
