Check Your Disaster Knowledge By Test

A special television program entitled "The National Disaster Survival Test" will be shown over the NBC network Sunday, May 1 at 8 p.m.

The 90 minute program is produced in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

Vivid examples of what to do in emergency situations -- floods, fires, tornadoes and vehicle accidents -- will be shown and viewers will be able to evaluate and grade themselves on their knowledge and reaction by using the special Test Sheet.

A copy of the Test Sheet is reprinted in this newspaper for the convenience of viewers who will want to take the quiz.

The program is being endorsed by the Division of Civil Preparedness of the N.C. Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

The special program is enthusiastically endorsed by Bill Niven, coordinator of the Hoke County Civil Preparedness Agency, who sees it as a valuable educational tool.

Both the chairman of the board of county commissioners, John Balfour, and Raeford Mayor John K. McNeill Jr., have urged all citizens to watch the program and participate in the Special Test to get a better understanding of the nature of disasters and how to survive with the appropriate safety measures.

A resolution was signed by the officials April 18.
