'National Volunteer Week'
Highlighted With Luncheon

In honor of the many fine Volunteers who give their time and talents to the hospital, Moore Memorial Hospital participated in "National Volunteer Week". The highlight of the week was a luncheon given by the department heads in the new cafeteria. Tuesday afternoon, the cafeteria became a banquet hall, featuring many kinds of food in a warm, pleasant atmosphere. The luncheon was given in appreciation of the more than 200 volunteers, who have this past year given more than 40,000 hours in 32 service areas of the hospital.

We are quite proud of our many volunteers here at MMH. They perform many activities which add to our patient care. Volunteers work in a non-medical capacity complementing the routine activities of the hospital. Volunteers are men and women of all ages from the surrounding area who have a common interest: to serve others.

Volunteers, we thank you for your time, your energy, and your help.

Mrs. Sarah Howard has given more than 1,300 hours here at Moore Memorial Hospital in the Admitting office during the past four years.

Norton, and Garry Allen Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Frederick of Aberdeen, pledged their wedding vows on Sunday, April 23, at 4:00 p.m., at the Second Baptist Church. The Rev. Quack Diets

Ten million Americans waste over $500 million a year on quack diets, fake pills, and food supplements. Are you one of them?

"Prevent or Cure" heart trouble, diabetes, stomach trouble, tired blood, old age and other troubles with "Special Foods or Supplements." Do you buy or use them? "Short Cut to Weight Control" -- does it work? For how long?

Will an apple a day keep the doctor away? Is it dangerous to drink milk while eating seafood?

Today's quack is not the "medicine man" of the past. Often he displays and uses impressive looking but medically worthless equipment. There is no scientific basis for his diagnosis or treatment, but he doesn't hesitate to use "scientific" terms in his conservation or advertising in order to impress you.

Dr. Nadine Tope, Extension Foods Specialist, North Carolina State University, will speak to these claims on Wednesday, April 26, in the Conference Room of the County Office Building.

Two Hoke High Classes
Gather For Reunion

Lenora Thompson

The Elks Club, Southern Pines, provided a picturesque setting for a grand reunion of the 1943 and 1944 graduating classes of Hoke High School, Raeford, on Saturday night, April 15.

The 105 present included more than 50 percent of the members from each class with their spouses and six teachers.

Greeting the classmates who arrived shortly before the steak dinner at seven o'clock, were D.R., Jr. and Emogene Sinclair Huff of Aberdeen, Ken and Betsy Ann Cole McNeill, Faye Baker Jordan and Edith Sanders Best of Raeford. They gave out "hello" cards on which were pictures of the classes at graduation. These were suppose to help the members "identify" their former classmates and, also, to show how much each had changed over the years.

Edwin Hasty of the class of '43 gave the welcome and Joe Upchurch of the class of '44 had the introductory and read comments from classmates who were unable to attend, but sent their best wishes as well as "regrets" by post.

The classes were very pleased and honored to have among them their principal, Mr. V.R. White of Fayetteville and teachers: Mrs. V.R. White; Mrs. Clyde Upchurch with Mr. Upchurch, Mrs. J.C. McLean and Mr. J.W. Turlington of Raeford; and Miss Lucy Glenn Gill of Burlington. Each made brief remarks.

Ken McNeill brought rounds of applause as he presented the "fun" awards. Thelma Mays Bayliff of Aberdeen won the award for having been blessed with the most grandchildren and Tom Patterson of Tacoma, Washington, won the award for having traveled the farthest distance.

Mrs. Leonora Currie McKay of Dunn delighted the group by reciting a poem she composed especially for the occasion. She reminisced of the past - filled with its "ups and downs" and looked to the future - foreseeing years of leisure living and doing all the "dream" things that parents forego while rearing a family.

The Reverend Zane Gray Norton of Shelby, a member of the class of '43 asked the blessing, and after the delicious dinner and planned program, the party concluded with a social of "getting re-acquainted." For those who wished to dance, the walls were opened and they danced to band music provided by the club.

Arrangements of dogwood blossoms and pink azaleas adorned the reunion tables.

"It was a very good looking group - pretty young, not too bald and not too gray," said Betsy Ann McNeill, who added, "of course we were dressed in our best clothes."

Everyone had an enjoyable and memorable evening.
