"A.M. Weather" is a daily, live 15 minute-TV weather program broadcast Monday through Friday on public TV stations from coast to coast.

The UNC TV network or Channel 4, broadcasts the program at 8:15 a.m. each weekday morning.

Pilots, farmers, students, teachers, construction workers and general weather buffs are watching the program already.

A national weather overview, a look at forces affecting developments in the next 24 hours and a comprehensive forecast segment on regional conditions and forecast projections are included. Why not take a look and see if it can help your operations.

Farmers often uses "rules of thumb" in making production decisions.

It is commonly stated that the breakeven price ratio between soybeans and corn is 2.5 to 1, and for soybeans and cotton it is about 10 to 1. In other words, if soybean prices are more than 2½ times corn prices and more than 10 times cotton prices, soybeans are viewed more profitable.

Many factors can cause changes to occur that would not let these rules work. You must study all of the factors before making a final decision.

Turfgrass workshops will be coming up the last of March and early April.

People that have the responsibility of producing turf or for maintenance of turf around buildings, golf courses, shopping centers, and other areas should attend the workshop.

Homeowners with large areas of turf are encouraged to attend also. The first workshop is on March 29 at the Extension auditorium in Fayetteville.

The second is on April 18 at Sandhills Community College in Southern Pines.

Mrs. Falkenberg Trying To Find Late Husband's Painting Equipment Here

The wife of a man who died while preparing to paint a house in Raeford is trying to find the house so she can get her husband's equipment.

Mrs. Viola Falkenberg of Rt. 1, Box 20, Shannon, told The News-Journal Friday afternoon her husband didn't mention the customer's name or the address of the house he was to paint.

She said her husband, Orval Lee Falkenberg, died of a heart attack March 21 while driving from Lumberton after buying four tires for his car there. She said he had brought his equipment, including ladders, to the Raeford house the day before.

Mr. Falkenberg also had put $138 worth of paint in his car but the paint was not found in his car after he died. She said she believed he had unloaded the paint at the Raeford house before he went to Lumberton.

Mrs. Falkenberg said her husband was acquainted with the man who wanted the work done. She said he approached her husband while they were at the license plate sales office (in the Raeford-Hoke County Chamber of Commerce building) and said he believed he knew him.

Then the man said he'd like Mr. Falkenberg to paint his mother's house, and Mr. Falkenberg agreed. The customer said his mother was away from home.

Mrs. Falkenberg said the man told her husband he could do the work any time he chose, indicating that he need not start immediately.

Mrs. Falkenberg wants the man who engaged her husband to get in touch with her so she can get her husband's equipment. Her telephone number is 843-5896.

Hoke Democrats To Attend Jefferson-Jackson Dinner

Several Hoke County Democrats are expected to attend the 49th annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Celebration in Raleigh April 7.

The celebration, named in honor of two of the nation's most famous Democratic leaders, will draw participants from every county in the state. Virtually all of North Carolina's elected state officials will attend, as well as members of the state's Congressional delegation.

"We're going to have a day of good food, great fellowship and exciting speakers," said State Party Chairman Russell Walker. "We expect to have one of the country's outstanding young senators as our dinner speaker, and the new Raleigh Civic Center will be a beautiful setting for that event."

Tickets for the dinner are $25 each, and may be purchased from county party chairman Kenneth McNeill, from state Democratic headquarters at the Hilton Inn in Raleigh, or by writing State Democratic Headquarters, P.O. Box 12196, Raleigh 27605.

The dinner menu will feature roast top sirloin of beef, Southern fried chicken and golden fried ocean perch.

Included are a variety of fresh vegetables and salads, breads, and a choice of desserts, coffee and tea.

The day's activities begin with a 10 a.m. breakfast that will feature as speaker a member of the White House staff. The breakfast, at the Hilton Inn in Raleigh, is sponsored by the Democratic Women of Wake County. Tickets are $10.

All ticket holders for the dinner are also invited to a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Governor's Mansion. Gov. Jim Hunt and members of the congressional delegation and the Council of State will receive guests, along with the dinner speaker.

Light refreshments will be served.
