

is for this weather to continue for the remainder of the week.

When you read this column the election will be over and whoever wins, we must put up with for the next several years.

It will be impossible for the ones elected to keep all the promises that have been made for the past couple of months. Usually most promises are forgotten as soon as the polls close. We should remember that for any kind of program to be carried out for the betterment of the country, they will need our help. The President or Congress cannot do it by themselves.

Anyway may the best man or woman win, and to the victor go the spoils.

It looks as if the hostages may be released in the next couple of weeks. Of course we don't know all the details, so we should keep silent until all the facts are known. The decision looks easy for us because we want the people home, but there are many other things that the leaders of this country must look at before they will crimmit themselves.

It seems that letters from my readers come in bunches just like trouble seems to pile up all at the same time. This past week brought forth three letters from former citizens of this county. We will run two of these and a part of the third.

The first letter is as follows: Dear Sam,

I recently made a contact which I believe would be of interest to a few people down in Hoke County. In the late 1920s and the early 1930s, Mr. Johnson Matthews from the Riverton Community near wa-gram was principal of the Blue Springs Elementary School. The students nicknamed him "Chubby Junior" and he was quite an interesting personality to say the least

He retired several years ago from an important position in state government in Raleigh. Nine years ago he suffered a stroke which left him unable to write, but he would like nothing better than to hear from some of his former students at the old Blue Springs School. A few

With Hoke County

City Council Joins Planner Agreement

The Raeford City Council Monday night adopted a motion to enter a two - year joint planner program with Hoke County. The Board of Hoke County Commissioners adopted a motion earlier Monday at their first - of -the - month meeting to make the agreement with the city.

Under the agreement county and city will provide $10,000 each per year for the operation of the planner's office. City Manager Ron Matthews and County Manager James Martin will hire the planner and the planner will be responsible to them. These are some of the details of the agreement.

In other business at the regular meeting for November, the council adopted a resolution authorizing the filing of an application for $90,000 in State Clean Water Bond Act funds to help pay for the improvements planned for the city's waste - water treatment plant.

The cost is estimated at about $900,000.

The federal Economic Development Administration recently ap-proved a $720,000 grant for the planned improvements. A total of $65,000 is scheduled to be raised by the sale of city bonds to the federal Farmers Home Administration, which will charge the city 5 per cent interest.

The remaining $25,000 of the estimated cost will be provided by the city budget. The council in other business adopted a motion to enter into a contract with Townscape Union Development Services Inc. Development Services, Inc., of Raleigh to complete Phase One of the Downtown Revitalization Effort. The cost is $8,200. Peter Batchlor, director of Townscape, did the earlier planning work and will be the remainder under the new contract. The council approved on the recommendation of the City Planrecommendation of the City Fian-ning Board the preliminary plans of Pinetops subdivision and part of Eastwood subdivision, owned by Raeford Power & Manufacturing and Duncan McFadyen III respectively. The council made the installation of water and sewer lines subject to property owners' pe-titioning for annexation to the city, which Avery Connell, representing Raeford Power, said would be done.

Councilmen also were informed of the appointments of the reorganized countywide Raeford Housing Authority of the city members: J.D. McAllister for one year, Leonard T. Miller for two years, Harold Stone for three years, Betty Morgan for four years, and J.H. Blue for five years. The county commissioners have appointed the four county members of the Authority

For Raeford, County Board Backs Joint Planner Proposal

The Hoke County commissioners Monday voted to make an agree-ment with the City of Raeford to set up a joint planner for two years The commissioners also adopted companion motion to accept a $5,600 planning grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The agreement provides that the city and county put up $10,000 a year each to finance joint planner's office. The commissioners also agreed that, though the HUD planning grant which is for the fiscal year 1980 - 81, would be used by the county alone this year, hereafter any other federal grants the county receives would be divided with the city. The City Council earlier this fall agreed to the joint - planner program and to putting up half the $20,000 for the first year. During the discussion that preceded the commissioners' action on the motions, Commissioner Mabel Riley wanted to know whether more than $20,000 would be needed by the planner's office later, but County Manager James Martin and others said knowing the answer to that question now. The motion on the agreement set schedule of values for the 1982 county property re-evaluation after a report from Bill Allen of Allen Appraisal Co. of Laurinburg, the company doing the re-appraising of county land for re-evaluation for tax purposes. The commissioners adopted a motion requesting the County Board of Education to meet with the county manager in reference to absence of funds in the school system budget for physician assistant services. The question came up when the commissioners started considering a request made by County Health Department Ad-ministrator Lloyd Horne for additional funds to continue the physician assistant's services at the present level. The commissioners knew that the Board of Education has been providing some funds for the service but not how much. The commissioners accepted with regret the notice of retirement of Hoke County Veterans Service Officer Marion Clark, leaving December 31 after 35 years with the county government. The commissioners approved an agreement for the State Child Support Enforcement Program and designated the County department of Social Services as the local agency responsible for administering the program in the county. The commissioners also ap-proved Social Services Department Director Ken Witherspoon's request for a temporary position to assist with the Energy Assistance Program for low - income people. Severance pay for two deputies sheriff who have resigned was approved by adoption of a motion to that effect but the motion advised Sheriff David Barrington that these would be the last of such payments. The sheriff had requested the severance pay for Deputies Joshua Brown and George McGuire. His request said the payments would not affect the sheriff's department budget since

Just to let you know how much I appreciate and enjoy The News-Journal. Raeford still has a warm place in my heart.

I just want to say I love the people of Raeford for their friendship and love they showed us the nine (9) years we were pastor of the Evangelical Methodist Church.

Those past years are alive in our hearts and minds today. I want to thank those who have been sending The News-Journal to us.

I want to say again we love the people of Raeford dearly. "May God richly bless and keep all of

Mayor McNeill Receives It For City

Hunt Gives Raeford Excellence Award

Raeford was officially honored as a Governor's Community of Excel-lence by Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., in Raleigh October 29 during the Governor's Second annual Conference on Economic Development.

Hunt presented the award to Mayor John K. McNeill, Jr. "I am proud of the progress which communities like Raeford have made during the past year." Hunt said. "It is an achievement which they can look upon with great pride. But more importantly, the work which has been done in qualifying for this honor also represents a big step toward better job opportunities.

qualify for the award, Raeford had to meet the basic criteria required by new industry. Among other things this included establishng an organizatin to maintain information on the town's story, labor, industrial sites, financing, and access to markets.

A total of 100 communities, all with populations of 15,000 or less, received Community of Excellence Awards. Thirty-five of the reci-pients are first time winners this year.

Highway signs noting the honor have been provided.

The Community of Excellence Project in Raeford was coordinated by a committee of the Raeford-Hoke County Chamber of Commerce.
