Keever Is Appointed
District Court Judge

Anna Elizabeth Keever, 31, of Fayetteville, a Cumberland County assistant district attorney, was appointed Thursday a District Court judge by Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr.

She was named to fill the vacancy created by the retirement February 1 of Judge Derb C. Carter. The judgeship is in the 12th Judicial District, which is composed of Cumberland and Hoke counties.

She will serve the unexpired portion of Carter's four-year term, which ends December 5.

Keever is a candidate for election to the regular four-year term of the position. She filed January 4 for election to the judgeship Carter was leaving.

Keever has been an assistant district attorney in the 12th since 1975 after graduating earlier that year from the University of North Carolina School of Law at Chapel Hill. Since then she has become senior district attorney.

She is a native of Surry County and graduated magna cum laude from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro with a degree of Bachelor of Arts in history before entering law school.

Before joining the DA's staff in Fayetteville, she served as a summer intern in the U.S. Middle District court prosecuting attorney's office in Greensboro.

Keever is a member of CARE Domestic Violence Project Advisory Board and is a former member of the Fayetteville Technical Institute Paralegal Advisory Board.
