quently must be corrected.

The motion adopted, offered by Commissioner Danny DeVane, provides that the work be done "the cheapest and most feasible way possible." The suggestion to get DOT help was made on the grounds that part of the water involved in the problem is highway water.

OTHER BUSINESS

The commissioners also adopted a motion to move toward determining what work needed to be done on the Courthouse in connection with its listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

A restoration architectural firm and a restoration consultant will be interviewed, according to the authority provided in the motion, and one chosen to evaluate the problems and draw up a plan of priority items of work that need to be done. This was suggested by Camille A. Bowman, restoration specialist in the Restoration and Preservation Services Branch of the State Department of Cultural Resources in a letter written to Martin.

Martin in a written memorandum said that if the commissioners should decide to hire a restoration specialist, at least two of those recommended be interviewed first and that the county could receive a 50 percent technical-assistant grant to help pay for the study, though it may be next fall before funds, "if any," are available.

To qualify for the grant, Martin wrote, "the interview procedure is required and a consultant cannot be hired before the time the grant is awarded." "This route would effectively put 'on hold' any immediate action on the needs of the Courthouse," he added.

He said one specialist should be chosen as soon as possible. Facility Fee Funds could be used to pay the entire cost of the consultant, he added.

The commissioners also adopted motions authorizing purchase for $2,651 a new mailing machine for use of county offices; and to write a letter to the chairman of the County Board of Education saying the commissioners are ready and willing to visit schools to see the needs, for budget consideration.

The commissioners were told they need to consider adopting in the near future a policy of Reduction in Force for the county government. This would be a guide for discharging people in event such action is necessary for financial reasons.

A committee of county staff people is to draw up a proposed policy in the next two months.

offs. Raeford defeated Laurinburg 12-6 at Red Springs and in the semi-finals defeated New Bern 6-1. The other article was on the front page and stated that Raeford would play Clayton in Fayetteville for the Eastern Championship.

While we were discussing this subject recently, there was a difference of opinion on who Raeford played for the Eastern championships. Now this is cleared up by this paper brought in last week. (Will those who said Raeford played Dunn, please take note?)

Thanks for the paper, Jimmie Neal.

Other things of interest that took place at the highway meeting recently were when it was brought out that the work force was now 19 instead of the 31 here because of the money crunch and instead of five motor graders we now have two.

I would say that with the reduction in manpower and equipment that the crew does a fine job here in the county. I do hope that it doesn't snow much because it will take more time to clear the roads.
