Braswell Appeals Court Candidate

E. Maurice Braswell of Fayetteville has announced his candidacy for Judge of the North Carolina Court of Appeals to fill the vacancy of Edward B. Clark's seat.

For the past 19 years, Braswell, 59, has been a Superior Court judge. He is currently senior resident judge of the 12th Judicial District (Cumberland and Hoke counties). As of April 1, 1982, Braswell becomes Dean of the state's Superior Court judges in seniority, following the retirement of Judge George Fountain.

Although he has been primarily assigned to the counties of the 2nd Judicial Division, Judge Braswell has held court in approximately 50 counties from the mountains to the coast. This experience has covered all phases of criminal and civil cases as well as numerous administrative matters.

A graduate of the Law School of UNC at Chapel Hill in 1950, Braswell graduated from the National Judicial College at Boulder, Colo., in 1966. He has worked in private law practice and was appointed district attorney in the old 9th District by Gov. Luther Hodges in 1955. He was re-elected to that post for two more terms. Braswell is currently serving his third elected eight-year term as a Superior Court judge.

Since 1964 Braswell has been engaged in judicial writing as a member of the Pattern Jury Instruction Committee and is co-author of three volumes of pattern jury instructions. He is also co-author of the Judges Bench Book and has written law review articles on jury voir dire and objections. With Dr. Elmer Oettinger he co-authored in 1972 two booklets of fables for children, in the nature of Aesop, which were published by the Governor's Crime Commission and issued to public schools by the State Department of Public Instruction.

During World War II Braswell served in the Army Air Corps as a tail gunner on a B-17 on 41 combat missions out of Italy. Shot down three times, he was a prisoner of war for two months in Bucharest, Roumania.

While he was born in Rocky Mount, Edgecomb County, and graduated from high school there in 1941, Braswell has made his home in Fayetteville since 1950, and is married to the former Ruth Cox of Greene County.

For his campaign treasurer, Judge Braswell has appointed Jerome B. Clark, Jr., of the law firm of Clark, Shaw, Clark and Bartelt in Fayetteville. Clark is counselor of the North Carolina State Bar.
