

Library News

"THE LITTLE RED HEN"

Upchurch Junior High exceptional children will present "The Little Red Hen" as a play, at the Hoke County Public Library, Tues., April 6 at 10:30 a.m. in the conference room. This production will be covered by WKFT TV of Fayetteville. It is being presented by the students of Mrs. Carolyn Pagan, a teacher of exceptional children at Upchurch.

All children are invited to attend. Mothers of pre-kindergarten youngsters should bring your little ones on this date. We are sure they will enjoy one of their favorite stories done in a play.

SUMMER READING PROGRAM

Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. McDiarmid attended a Children's Workshop for summer reading in Raleigh on Monday. The workshop was for the summer reading program "Just Open a Book." There were many good ideas given and your librarians will be working on this program for all the youngsters in this area. So, even tho' "School is Out" is several weeks away you may want to be planning to look into the life of "JOAB" and see if you can find out who he is. We'll be looking for you and your participation with JOAB this summer.

Subirrigation Comes To County

For the past 3 weeks, Kirian Tiling Company of Marion, S.C., has been installing corrugated plastic drain tile on several Hoke County farms.

Working through the Hoke Soil and Water Conservation District, a meeting was held in January between farmers and tile contractor to coordinate a bulk rate arrangement.

Presently over 80,000 feet of tile has been installed on Earl Hendrix, Edgar Edens, Lacy Hendrix, Johnson Farm and Bobby Gibson farms. Most footage is installed on a grid pattern with the intent of reversing the tile for subsurface irrigation by using a water control structure in the outlet ditch and impounding water back into the tile lines. This practice of "subirrigation" has been used quite extensively in the Southeastern States with positive-yield results.

Compared to conventional sprinkler irrigation, "subirrigation" provides a substantial yield response at only a fraction of the cost. The key to this system is water table control to reduce the need for pumped water, utilizing spring rains.

"Subirrigation" is a very important facet of "Total Water Management", a high priority of Hoke County's Soil and Water Conservation needs for years to come.

NEWLY INSTALLED -- Minutes after being installed, this 1,000-foot-long four-inch-diameter tile was flowing one-third full. Farmers commented that this method of installation speeded water infiltration into the tile sooner than conventional trenching machines.

TILE MACHINE -- This tile machine, made in Germany by Hoes Co., is one of four in the U.S. It is powered by a 450 HP aircooled engine and installs tile at the rate of 100 feet per minute.

Council To Participate In State Awards

The Hoke County Involvement Council announced it would participate in the 1982 Governor's Volunteer Awards.

A volunteer nomination committee has been selected and will begin immediately to solicit nominations in eleven categories, according to Ashwell Harward, chairman, and contact person for the Governor's Office of Citizen Affairs for Hoke County.

The categories are: Individual Human Service Volunteer, Individual Community Volunteer Leader, Administrator/Coordinator of Volunteers, Youth Volunteer, Senior Citizen Volunteer, Disabled Person, School Volunteer, One-to-One Volunteer, Community Volunteer Organization, Church/Religious Volunteer Group, Business/Industry Volunteer Involvement.

The selections will be announced locally, and the recipients will be honored by Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. this fall.

Committee members are: Ashwell B. Harward, chairman, Mrs. Joan Balfour, Raz Autry, Mrs. Sara Leach, Earl Fowler, and Miss Emma Mims.

"We hope to receive nominations from all segments of the community and recognize the valuable contributions of individuals and groups", Harward said.

Nominations should be made immediately and mailed to Volunteers for Youth, 523 College Drive, Raeford, 28376. For further information, call Harward at 875-3731 or 875-4809. In making a nomination, indicate name of person, his or her address, and description of service.
