Volunteers Seen Vital To 4-H

April 19-24 is National Volunteer Week and should be a time for volunteers in all areas to be recognized for the work they have done.

According to Alice Lancaster, 4-H agent, volunteers are vital parts of the 4-H program. Without the help of these volunteer leaders, the program could not grow and expand.

With the help of volunteer leaders, 4-H is able to offer a variety of learning experiences for youth 9-19. There are a variety of roles that 4-H volunteers play. One type of leader is a 4-H community club leader who meets with a 4-H club on a regular basis and helps them plan their programs. The club has officers, an educational program at each meeting, and participates in special activities.

Another kind of leader is a 4-H special interest leader.

These leaders share a skill or knowledge with a group of youth for a short period of time. The leaders work with youth for a minimum of six hours on one particular subject, for example, sewing, rocketry, bicycle, cross-stitch, photography, etc. Other volunteers also contribute time to special activities such as Fashion Revues, Talent Shows, demonstrations, etc., and as judges for various events.

As you can see, these volunteers offer a valuable service to Hoke County and its youth. During this week, please take a few minutes to show your appreciation to volunteers that you know. The Hoke County 4-H program would like to offer a special thanks to all the
