Cook Tries Out With Dallas For Backfield

Anthony Cook of Raeford tried out Saturday to play for the Dallas Cowboys as a defensive back.

Cook, 23-year-old son of Joe and Dorothy Cook of East Prospect Avenue, told a reporter in Dallas that "I just came from Mars Hill and need a job." He went to Dallas from Raeford at his own expense ($500). Cook graduated from Mars Hill College which is about 20 miles north of Asheville, on May 16 with a degree of Bachelor of Science in physical education.

During the course of studying at the Baptist mountain school, he played three seasons of football. In his junior year, Mars Hill got a record of 8-1-1 and got as far as the quarter finals of the NAIA national playoffs before being eliminated. Cook dislocated a finger playing in a game that season but kept on playing anyway, and had corrective surgery done on the injured joint. It doesn't bother him anymore, he said Monday in talking with a reporter at The News-Journal.

Cook played his college ball under Coach Claude (Hoot) Gibson, a former Oakland Raider (defensive back and punt-return specialist).

Cook weighs 198 pounds and stands 6 feet 1 inch.

At Hoke High, he played three years of football as a defensive end, first under Coach Bill Cameron, then under Coach Jack Harris, graduating in 1977.

Cook isn't just waiting to hear from Dallas right now.

He's looking for a job in physical education.
