

SCURLOCK CHORUS -- The Scurlock School Fourth Grade Chorus shown here with director Doris Austin will sing Thursday in the concert of the Scurlock Spring Fest, starting at 7 p.m., in the auditorium. It will be followed by the Art Exhibit of the Fest in the library. The Third and Fourth Grade students' work will be shown there. Nancy McNeill will play piano accompaniment for the concert. The Art Exhibit will consist of the work of the students of Martha Warren, the art teacher.

'Inside The Third Reich' On TV

by Naomi Johnson

The ABC production (May 9-10) of Inside the Third Reich was a fine adaptation of Albert Speer's memories depicting the inner workings of Nazi Germany's political machine. Albert Speer (Rutger Hauer) was second in importance only to Hitler (Derek Jacobi) himself, and, according to the book's introduction, "one English newspaper had even written, toward the end of the war, that he (Speer) was more important to the German war effort than Hitler himself."

How could a man who considered himself politically detached rise to a position of such extra-ordinary importance, and how could he completely obliterate the atrocities going on around him? Speer's main problem was his ambition, not for power or prestige, but to further himself as an architect to become Hitler's master builder. So like Faust who sold his soul for knowledge, Speer sells his for position. He says, "Like Faust, I had found my Mephistopheles."

The book and TV adaptation try answer questions concerning Hitler's rise to power and how an individual with Speer's background and intelligence could be lured as

Speer was dedicated to his profession and his family, particularly his wife, Marguarite (Blythe Danner). The TV adaptation romanticized the relationship beromanticized the relationship between Speer and his family; he plays it down in the autobiography. He was highly respected by his colleagues at Berlin University and had great admiration for his to-be mentor, Professor Heinrich Tessenow (Trevor Howard), about whom he wrote:

"My new professor is the most clear-headed man I have ever met. I am wild about him... I mean to try hard to be admitted to his master school in a year, and after another year will try to become his assistant.

Later, after the party believed Tessenow to be a political suspect and barred him from teaching, Speer used his political influence to reinstate him to his position at the university. Speer also protected his close friend and client, Dr. Robert

As the party became more powerful, those in prominent positions were afraid to do anything to jeopardize those positions, and those in less influential positions were afraid of losing the party's favor or even their lives.

While at the university Speer had many Jewish friends and students, but after joining the party he obliterates any distasteful thoughts concerning Hitler's solutions (first to final) "to the Jewish problem." He admits to a Soviet colonel before the Nuremburg trial that he had never read "Mein Kampf" and said "this failure was rooted in (his) inadequate political schooling." He continued by saying had he read it, he would have realized Hitler "was proclaiming expansion of the Reich to the East; was a rank anti-Semite; was committed to a system of authoritarian rule; and intended to eliminate democratic pro-cedures....' In those early days, Hitler's mental toughness and ideologies mesmerized thousands of eager, young intellectuals, in-cluding Speer.

Every time I read something or see a program concerned with Hitler's rise to power I become first tense, then frightened and angry, and finally vindictive. I found "Inside the Third Reich" particularly upsetting because it seems incredible that a brilliant, clearthinking young man could be taken in by a megalomaniac opportunist.

I found the ABC production startling at first because not only was it entirely in English, but there wasn't even a trace of a German accent not even at Hitler's most demagogic moments. This technique made this viewer wonder whether it was the producer's intention to question whether a similar situation could ever occur in an English-speaking country. No, this is 1982. Things like that no longer occur. It can't happen here

Lisa Williams Wins National Award

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Lisa Williams of Raeford has been named a 1982 United States National Award winner in business education.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 5% of all American high school students.

Lisa attends Hoke High School and was nominated for this Na-tional award by Shirley Parsons, her typing instructor.

Lisa will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards for Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, de-pendability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

She is the daughter of Jackie and Jerry Williams and the grand-daughter of Mrs. Doris Floyd and the late Heddie Floyd, and Mrs. Trannie Williams and the late O.G. Williams of Raeford.

Raeford Girl Receives National Award

Dorcas Hostetler of Raeford and Gene Melvin of Lumberton have been awarded the National I DARE YOU Award by Flora Macdonald

The honors were presented by Eugene L. McKethan, Jr., headmaster, at awards day ceremonies held at the school on May 18.

These students were selected for the Award in recognition of excellence in character and well balanced personal development as well as leadership potential.

In addition to the national recognition received, the Award provides the recipients with a copy of William H. Danforth's book I DARE YOU and a personalized certificate. Mr. Danforth wrote the book out of his own experience. He dedicated much of his time and philanthropy to youth work. In the book, he challenges the readers to aspire to their highest potential, to attain constructive lives of service and citizenship and to be com-mitted to excellence.

The I DARE YOU Award is made available by the I DARE YOU Committee of the American Youth Foundation in cooperation with the school. This is the 40th consecutive year of the Award program. The American Youth Foundation, founded in 1924, is a not-for-profit organization dedi-cated to providing programs for youth. The aim of the Foundation is the discovery and enhancement of leadership skills and the pro-motion of balanced growth and development.

RETIREMENT PRESENTS -- Tommy Macko retired recently as a rural route carrier after 35 years' service. Macko is well known in the Raeford area not only because of his postal service career, but also as an umpire and worker with young people in several sporting activities. He was presented several gifts by his fellow postal workers. Tommy is all smiles as he holds his retirement certificate in one hand and a rod and reel in the other. Pictured with Tommy is Postmaster Joe Carver [left] and window clerk Margaret Thaggard. [Staff photo by Pam Frederick].
