

3 Hoke High Students Chosen For Co-op Camp

Emmanuel Baldwin of Lumber Bridge, Andrea Shaw of Raeford and Patti Smith of Aberdeen have been selected by Lumbee River Electric Membership Corporation, to attend the Cooperative Youth Camp organized by the Cooperative Council of N.C.

Emmanuel, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Baldwin, is a junior at Hoke County High School. Andrea, also a junior at Hoke County High School, is the daughter of Mrs. E.M. Fields. A senior at Hoke County High School, Patti is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Smith, Jr.

They are among more than 60 youth from across North Carolina who were selected by their local cooperative to learn how cooperative work and to enjoy the fun and fellowship of a week at camp.

The camp agenda this week will include organizing the campers' own cooperative, election of a board of directors, hiring a general manager, adoption of by-laws and distribution of net savings.

The youth will participate in informal seminars conducted by cooperative leaders who will explain marketing, purchasing and service cooperatives.

"These young people are proven leaders who are already interested in co-ops" said F. Carlyle Teague, executive vice president of the Cooperative Council of N.C.

"By the time camp is over, they will have a much better understanding of the whole economic system. We're also sure they'll enjoy this fine campground with plenty of fun and swimming on the schedule."

Among those addressing the campers this week will be Kirk Kirkman with the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Commissioner of Agriculture James A. Graham; Secretary of State Thad Eure; C.E. Smith of FCX, Inc; and Dr. J.E. Legates of N.C. State University.

Many other prominent agricultural leaders will also participate on the program.

To Help Restore Historic House

Mill Prong To Get Grant

The Board of Trustees of the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, Inc., of Winston-Salem has approved a grant of $15,000 for Mill Prong Preservation, Inc., of Hoke County.

The Hoke organization has been working on the preservation of the Mill Prong house about nine miles southwest of Raeford and on SR 1120.

The announcement of the board's approval was made by Thomas W. Lambeth, executive director of the foundation, in a letter, copies of which were received by members of the Mill Prong organization. The letter was written to William S. McLean of Lumberton, treasurer of Mill Prong Preservation.

The organization received a grant in 1979 from the National Trust for Historic Preservation to help the effort to restore and preserve the house.

The house was built in the late 18th or early 19th century by John Gilchrist, a political and social leader of the community who lived from 1740 to 1802. It is one of the few remaining homes known to have been built by an immigrant Scot.

Col. Archibald McEachern (1788-1873) bought the property from Gilchrist's heirs early in the 19th century and made extensive additions to the original building.

Mrs. W. Richard Bullock of Red Springs, widow of McEachern's great-grandson, executed the lease of 50 years to Mill Prong Preservation, which is a nonprofit corporation chartered in 1978.

George Paris of Red Springs is president of the organization; Mrs.

"A FRIEND OF EDUCATION"

Says, The North Carolina Association Of Educators.

SENATOR NOBLE IS A STRONG ADVOCATE OF OUR SCHOOLS!

HE IS FOR LESS TAXES!

In 1979 there were 618 administrative positions, which have grown to 1,025 state positions and 250 federal positions by 1980. In 1969 there were 1,171,000 children enrolled in public schools, in 1981 there were only 1,134,000.

HE IS FOR LESS BUREAUCRACY

Senator Noble has consistently opposed the 8 regional Education Centers. Noble said the Centers are opposed by NC Association of Educators as "not necessary and reduplicating services." The centers received state and federal funds which had been removed from appropriations. But, the opposition put them back.
