

Nazareth Junior Missionary Program Set

The Junior Missionaries of Nazareth Baptist Church will host a spring program on Sunday, June 27 at 11 a.m. at the church in Wagram.

The speaker for the occasion will be Miss Rona Leach, a native of Maxton.

Miss Leach was born February 9, 1951, in Laurinburg. She is very involved in church activities. She is a member of Sandy Grove Baptist Church. (Rev. John Foster, Jr. pastor) a member of Sandy Grove Baptist Church Senior Choir, Director of Sandy Grove Youth Group.

The speaker is also involved in many civic activities such as the National Association of University Women, Wendall Court 608, Order of Calanthe and The Robeson County Black Caucus.

Miss Leach is an educator. Her achievements include 1973 recipient of Outstanding Young Educator, a 1963 graduate of R.B. Dean School, 1973 graduate of St. Andrews Presbyterian College with a B.A. degree in biology, a 1976 graduate of A&T University with a master's degree in educational administration.

Her career includes teaching and, presently, administrative work.

She was a science teacher at Townsend Middle School in Max-ton for seven years, science departmental chairman of R.B. Dean School, and currently an assistant principal of the R.B. Dean School, Maxton.

She has accomplished many of her goals but she often refers to her greatest accomplishment as being "a true child of God."

"Things That Matter"

by Lucien Coleman

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR TIME

An old Chinese proverb says, "An inch of time on the sun-dial is worth more than twelve inches of jade."

A contemporary writer had essentially the same truth in mind when he penned the words, "Yesterday is a canceled check; tomorrow is a promissory note; today is ready cash—spend it wisely."

Most of us would nod our heads in agreement. Time is valuable. Everyone knows that. Yet, few of us spend it as carefully as we spend our cash. We let enormous quantities of it slip through our fingers without really knowing what happened to it. Consequently, we never have quite enough to go around.

This problem has no sure-fire cure. But there are ways to get more time out of the "wasted" column, so it can be put to work. Give some thought to the following suggestions.

- Don't let yesterday use up too much of today. Yesterday is gone forever. It's water under the bridge. No use rehearsing yesterday's decisions or regretting yesterday's mistakes. You can't do them over. Concentrate on today.

- Control your reading. Reading is one of your biggest time-sponges. Get out of the habit of reading things you don't need to read. Junk mail, for instance. Throw it away unopened. Don't kid yourself into believing that it won't cost you anything to see what's inside the envelope. It cost's time. And that's a loss you can never regain.

- Read everything like you read a newspaper. No one reads a newspaper word for word. You scan the pages looking for headlines and highlights that interest you. If they interest you, you read further. If not, you pass them by. Apply that reading technique to everything—letters, books, magazines, whatever comes your way. Don't read every word, unless it's a legal contract.

- Get into the habit of cutting out all unnecessary words. In personal conversations, telephone calls, and letters. There's nothing wrong with a one-paragraph letter, if it can be said in one paragraph. Jot down what you want to say in a letter or a phone conversation, in outline form, and stick to your outline.

- Utilize time like you use the space in your suitcase when packing for a trip. Fill up the small spaces with small things. Keep a list of things you can do in five minutes; then, when you have five minutes to spare, you can use it to good advantage.

- Try to make the first hour of the day your most productive. Rather than "warming up" to your day's work, plunge in. You'll be surprised at how much work you can knock off that first hour.

- Schedule time for thinking. For example, use that 15 minutes it takes to drive to work to think through what you want to accomplish.

And, remember, time wasted is just existence. Used, it's life.
