In Annual Fall Session

Exceptional Children's Educators Meet

The teachers and officials of programs for exceptional children in Hoke County discussed subjects and activities for the coming school year at their annual Fall Meeting, which was held Thursday in the Holiday Inn in Southern Pines.

Rhenda Cameron, coordinator of exceptional children's programs in the Hoke County school system, was in charge. The approximately 40 visitors were welcomed by William W. Cameron, Jr., chairman of the Hoke County Board of Education, and Ivey Thigpen, administrative assistant for programs for exceptional children, made the introductions.

Mrs. Cameron also had an overview of the programs.

The audience also was addressed by Raz Autry, Hoke County schools superintendent, Dr. Catherine Cooke of Carthage, Region IV coordinator for exceptional children's programs, and Wes Williams, who discussed computer awareness.

Mrs. Lee Hust led the prayer opening the meeting. The meeting started at about 8:30 a.m. and continued through mid-afternoon.

JOAB PARTY -- These boys and girls are among those who attended the JOAB reading program party at the Hoke County Public Library. The party had just ended when this picture was taken. The youngsters were treated to a puppet show, "Hanzel and Gretel," from Rockingham.
