Hoke Highlights

by Teresa Taylor
Pam Currie

Most students and faculty have settled into their new schedules at Hoke County High School this year.

There are many new faces among students, but only seven new faces among the faculty.

Two of the seven are teachers: Mrs. Lynn Jones, wife of Coach Tom Jones, who teaches math and Miss Anne Dorsey who teaches music.

The remaining five are student teachers.

These student teachers, especially Coach Joe Critcher who is teaching physical education under Coaches Edward and Barnhill, are really catching the students' eyes.

The other student teachers are: Greyton Flanagan, who is teaching English under Mrs. Betty Rogers; Edith Kornegay, who is teaching Biology under Mrs. Helen Dupree; Cynthia Lowery, who is teaching Business Education under Mrs. Phyllis Fahrenbruch; and Danny McPhail, who is teaching social studies under Robert Snipes.

Critcher, Flanagan and Kornegay are from St. Andrews College, and Lowery and McPhail are from Pembroke University.

Most clubs have been organized and the officers have been elected.

The French Club elected the following as officers for the 1982-83 school year: Pres. - Beverly Farrow; V. Pres. - Teresa Taylor; Sec. - Samantha Baldwin; Treas. - Donna Oxendine; Rep. - Donna Maxwell; Photo. - Ralph Pandure.

Madame C. Davis is the advisor of the French Club.

The Future Business Leaders of America Club elected as its Officers: Pres. - Mavis Lide; V. Pres. - Gwen Southerland; Sec. - Donna Spangler; and Treasurer - Patti Schiebe.

Eleven of the FBLA members attended the Fall Leadership Meeting at Fayetteville State on Mon., Oct. 11.

The Health Occupation Students of America Club (HOSA) under the supervision of Mrs. Sally Young, is assisting in the Leukemia Bke-athon which will be held Sat., Oct. 16.

This will be a five mile ride starting at 9 a.m. and ending at noon.

Free sandwiches and drinks, prepared by the Food Service class, will be served to the riders.

The HOSA officers are: Pres. - Teresa Pickett; V. Pres. - Donna Pittman; Treas. - Carol Davis; Rep. - Tracie Newkirk; Hist. - Ruth Wheeler, and Parl. - Pat Kellerman.

HOSA would like to thank the Art Dept. for making posters and the Food Service class for preparing the refreshments.

The Distributive Education Clubs of America club also elected its officers: Pres. - Kenneth Purcell; V. Pres. - Theresa Thornton; Sec. - Ruby Breeden; Treas. - Alison Purcell; Hist. - Marie Harris; and Rep. - Paula Locklear.

The officers will be installed at the Installation Meeting Wed., Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Don Steed will be the guest speaker.

Parents, employers, and administration are invited to attend.

Twenty DECA students are planning to attend the North Carolina

State Fair on Saturday. They will serve as hosts or hostesses for the Marketing and Distributive Education Exhibit. Mrs. Eleanor Sneed is the advisor of DECA.

The National Honor Society, under the supervision of Mrs. Sarah Baucom had a candlelight Induction ceremony Mon., Sept. 27 to induct the new members.

The new members are Donna Oxendine, Rodney Powell, Kim Smith, Chau Tran, Lisa Upchurch, James Ward and Ruth Wheeler.

The Hoke High Band had its first competition Sat., Oct. 9, at Seventy First High School. The next competition will be Sat., Oct. 16, at Richmond County High School.

Everyone should go to watch the band perform; they really need your support.

The Morehead Nominees from Hoke County High School are Tony Barefoot, Eric Coley, and Pam Currie.

Congratulations to these three outstanding students.

Pam served last week, Oct. 4-8, as a page for Gov. James B. Hunt.

This is also an honor and congratulations to Pam for this, even though we missed her very much and she was not here to help me write "our" column.

Student Pilot At Age 16

Tom Langdon was ready to fly an airplane by himself two years before he could get his license to drive a car.

Langdon, a junior at Hoke County High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Langdon, couldn't make his solo flight, either, at 14, and had to wait till he was 16.

Then he did it -- on his 16th birthday, last May 28, at the Statesville Airport.

Since then he has made his first solo flight away from an airport. That was to Laurinburg and, by the rules, after he had made the same trip with an instructor.

His mother says he hopes to make a career in aviation.

Performer Visits West Hoke School

"That's my cousin!" shouts one student. "I know him," yells another. Still another voice, "He's been here before; I saw him at Pembroke. He was in that movie we saw."

One after another the students remarked about the handsome, energetic and electrifying individual that appeared on stage after being introduced by Mr. Earl Oxendine, Federal Program Liaison Officer.

As this well-known entertainer talked of the importance of education, cautioned students to remain in school and to heed the advice of their teachers' the students, regardless of race or culture, wanted to reach out and touch this idol.

Anxiously and excitedly the girls raised their hands, jumped up and down, sighed "ooh" "ah-h-h" as the personable performer asked for a volunteer to join him on stage.

The students clapped and became totally involved as this proud Lumbee Indian played his electric guitar and sang songs of his heritage. The songs he sang told the story of a great people. A people (though often stereotyped) who have made great strides and contributions to the growth and development of our nation.

Willie Lowery, composer - musician, represents these people -- proud and free. Born in Robeson County, but resided in Baltimore, Maryland for many years. Willie's songs echoed the history of his people as he sang a song in tribute of Reverend Fuller D. Lowery, first graduate of Croatan Normal School (now known as Pembroke State University). In addition, the melodious voice resounded, "Brown Skin Child" and "Battle of Henry Bear," two of the songs from the outdoor drama "Strike At The Wind" for which he wrote the music.

Although Willie has developed his own unique style, one can detect a cross-section of Lionel Richie and Kenny Rogers. One may say his renditions of "Three Times A Lady" and "The Gambler" are just examples of the songs which indicate his respect and admiration for the celebrities.

In fact, respect and admiration is probably what inspires the nationally known entertainer, (who has traveled through the United States and Europe) to visit the schools as he did West Hoke during American Indian Heritage Week. It is also what prompted him to accept the position of Director of Creative Arts at the Center for Arts in Pembroke -- a position in which he is able to use his talents to promote self-respect and personal dignity among a people -- proud and free.

Meeting the Challenge . . . Cooperatively!

Electricity is the highest grade, most versatile energy available. We use it to power motors, drive pumps, heat and provide light.

Yet, despite its versatility, electric energy has one drawback. It can't be stored. The simple fact is, electricity must be generated when consumers demand it.

That's why America's consumer-owned rural electric systems have preached conservation for so many years, asking people to manage their use of power, to use electricity more wisely and to use it at different times of the day. Your rural electric cooperative must have ready enough electricity to meet the period of highest demand. If we can reduce this peak -- if we can even out demand -- it means we all will benefit.

We can help you find ways to save energy and money, ways to help us reduce peak loads. Give us a call. We'll attack your energy problems the way we met the challenge of bringing light to the countryside cooperatively.
